PLURALITIES OF LONG, ATKINSON, SPENCER AND HYDE GROWING

Returns From More Than Half of State Indicate Long Will Be Nominated by 18,000, Atkinson by 35, 000, Spencer by 12,000
and Hyde by 30,000.

BIG RURAL VOTE FOR LEAGUE ADVOCATES

78,381 Ballots Reported for Long and Hay, Against 36,054 for Priest, Opponent of League—Davis to Support Spencer.

Constantly increasing pluralities
for the leading candidates for Governor and United States Senator in Tuesday's primary, as returns from country districts are reported, indicate that Arthur M. Hyde's plurality for the Republican nomination for Governor over E. E. McJannet will be at least 30,000; that John M.
Atkinson's plurality for the Democratic nomination for Governor over Charles H. Mayer, his nearest opponent, will be at least 35,000; that Breckinridge Long's plurality for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator over Henry S. Priest, his nearest opponent, will be at least 18,000, and that Senator Selden P.
Spencer's plurality for the Republican nomination over Dwight F. Davis will be at least 12,000.

On considerably more than half the votes reported up to this afternoon, the totals were:
Republican, for Governor—Hyde, 85,382; McJannet, 52,444; a plurality for Hyde of 32,938.
Democratic, for Governor—Atkinson, 62,171; Mayer, 27,596;
a plurality for Atkinson of 34,575.

Republican, for United States
Senator—Spencer, 65,797; Davis, 29,792; a plurality for Spencer of 36,005.
Democratic, for United States
Senator—Long, 47,711; Priest, 35, 185; Hay, 30,975; a plurality of 11,536 for Long.

Rural Vote for League.
The vote of the larger cities, which was in early yesterday, gave Priest and Davis a lead over Long and Spencer, respectively, but this was disputed by the afternoon returns, which placed Long and Spencer ahead, and almost every county reversed last night and this morning increased their leads.

It is not probable that the total unofficial returns of the State will be received before the official count is made by the Secretary of State in Jefferson City the latter part of next week, and thus the exact pluralities
will not be known until that time.

From the returns in the State Sen-atoric district it appears that the sentiment among Democrats in Missouri is more than two to one in favor of the League of Nations. Priest, whose candidate was espoused by Senator Reed, and who campaigned as an opponent of the League of Nations, received only 36,054 votes among those reported, while Long and Hay, ardent advocates of the league, had a combined vote of 78,381.

The Democratic vote included in these figures represents only about a third of the Democratic vote of the State, and much of that not represented is in districts where the sentiment is strongly for the League.
Because of the nature of the Priest campaign, it also is believed that virtually the entire anti-League vote was brought out.

It might be that Priest's opposition to prohibition served to reduce his vote somewhat in the country, but it likewise served to increase it in the cities.

Reed's Strength Shown.
Priest's friends in the campaign in the rural districts, however, made a determined fight on the League issue, and his strength there was considered to be the total of Reed's present strength. Priest ran third in the race in the country, Hay defecting him in nearly every county, only a few counties with a large number of voters of German descent going for him, and one or two counties where Reed was particularly strong.

It appeared probable from the returns that Atkinson would have a vote larger than the total vote of his three opponents, Mayer, Farrie and Robert H. Merryman. Spencer, it also appeared, might get more votes than Davis and James L.
Minnis combined.

Later returns did not change the early estimates on the candidates.

MAN SUING MILL SAYS LAWN WAS BURIED UNDER SAWDUST

Old Orchard Resident Alleges Shavings Up to Four Feet Deep Ruined Garden and Cistern.
Thomas F. Cahill of Old Orchard, president and treasurer of the Cahill Sewing Manufacturing Co., and his wife today filed a $7500 damage suit at Clayton against the Holskamp Lumber Co. of which Carl Holskamp, Mayor of Webster
Groves, is branch manager, at Old Orchard, alleging that the company is violating building restrictions in maintaining a planing mill on grounds adjoining the Cahill home.
The petition alleges that sawdust and shavings, scattered by machinery at the mill, have covered the Cahill lawn to a depth of from three inches to four feet, ruined the garden and cistern, making it a fire hazard, and that the operation of the plant at night and on Sundays constitutes a disturbance to the Cahill family.
It also is charged that the lumber plant originally was a shed, and that it was converted into a planing mill at night, the machinery being installed surreptitiously. In addition to damages the Cahills ask an injunction restraining the company from the operation of the mill.

leader, at Salinas, Coahuila, on July ceived today from San Pedro Cua-huila. The terms are substantially as given in previous news dispatches.

They provide for Villa's retirement to private life with a guard of 20 men for his own protection. The remainder of his followers get a year's pay and farm land. Villa himself will live in the Hacienda de Canu-tillo, in the State of Durango.
The Villa forces are given as 15

ant-Colonels and 558 noncommis-sioned officers and privates.

RIEGER BEATEN FOR CONGRESS

War Veteran Unable to Overcome
Romjue's Lead in Macon.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Aug. 5.—Col.
J. E. Rieger, who brought the One Hundred Thirty-eighth Infantry back from France, and who was defeated for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the First District by M. A. Romjue, who has served two terms. Romjue's plurality was 1000 votes. Rieger, who believed here today. His plurality of 1400 in Macon County, his home, was too large for Rieger to overcome.

Rieger carried Hannibal by 760 and Marion County by 247. He carried Adair County by more than 600 and Seelye and Putnam Counties, but lost the other counties by from 50 to 250. A strong fight for Rieger was made on his war record and a number of former members of the Thirty-fifth Division were working in his interest.

Space in Park.

An iron fence is to be constructed around a plot of 50 feet by 50 feet beside the elephant house at the Zoo

where the elephants and hippopotamus will be placed. The enclosure is to give the animals more freedom and enable the public to see them more easily. It will be divided into separate spaces for the three animals and will be ready in a week.

TWO YOUTHS WHO KNEW OF HOLDUPS FOUND MURDERED

Bodies Dug Out of Creek Bed Near Royalton, Ill.—Prisoner Escapes Mob at Marion at Midnight.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
MARION, Ill., Aug. 5.—Settino de Sennis is in jail somewhere in Southern Illinois charged with two murders. He escaped a mob in Marion this morning by a few minutes.

William McPhail of Royalton was hunting in the woods near his home Tuesday afternoon and found some newly disturbed earth. Yesterday morning he returned to the dry creek bed accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Frank Bowling of Franklin County and they unearthed the body of a young man. Coroner William McCown of Williamson County was summoned to hold an inquest and while investigating the hole from which the boy had been taken, members of the coroner's jury discovered another grave and the body of another youth. Both had been murdered with a new butcher knife.

Meanwhile press reporters of the discovery sent out from Marion had reached West Frankfort, where Settino de Sennis was in jail on a charge of kidnapping. Parents of one of the youths, who was thought to have been kidnapped, were taken to the scene and identified one of them, and gave the clue for the identification of the other boy. Amiel Calcattera, 19 years old, and Tony Hempel, 16, were the young men murdered. The father of the Hem-pel youth is lame.

Warrant for Prisoner.

Louis Calcattera, father of the Italian youth who was at West Frankfort Tuesday, charging De Sen-sis with kidnapping and De Sennis with the murder of the youth, was arrested by Chief of Police E. B. Ragland of West Frankfort.
De Sennis admitted leaving West Frankfort for Royalton with the two youths, and they returned that evening, however.

According to testimony at the Coroner's inquest De Sennis had been suspected of complicity in the robbery of the Valley State Bank at Vallier, Ill., and young Calcattera was thought to have threatened to tell the authorities what he knew of the case. De Sennis is alleged to have induced the Hempel youth to enforce the Italian youth to leave West Frankfort.

Calcattera's throat was slashed clear across and the body had been placed in several places with the butcher knife.

Bodies in Creek Bed.

Hempel had evidently been shot
first and then his throat was slashed.
The bodies were buried within 30 feet of each other in a dry creek bed seldom traveled. Brush had been thrown over the graves.

De Sennis was rushed to the county jail at Marion from West Frankfort about 9 o'clock last night, and about midnight a runner came to the jail and stated that a mob was enroute from Marion to Royalton to rescue the alleged murderer. Deputy Sheriffs John Schafer and John Layman departed immediately with the prisoner, and no word has been received from them. The mob, nearly 200 strong, arrived at 12:15 a.
m. in automobiles, and demanded to search the jail. Officers were withstanding them the entire time, evidently believing that De Sennis was still in the city. They started a search of the city, and about an hour later returned to the jail and made another search.

Finding no one, they departed before 2 a. m. going towards Murphy-boro.

GUAM GOVERNOR, WHO ISSUED NO WHISTLING ORDER, OUSTED

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Capt.
W. W. Gilmer, naval Governor of Guam, who recently issued an order making whistling on the island punishable by $5 fine, has been relieved, and Capt. John C. Watsenel appointed to the governorship. Secretary Daniels, in announcing the relief of Capt. Gilmer, said the whistling order had no bearing on the action taken.

Daniels announced that Capt.
Waldo B. Evans has been ordered to Samoa to become naval governor, relieving Commander W. J. Terhune.

Sleep Walker Killed in Fall.

BURLINGTON, Ia., Aug. 5.—R. A.

and fell to the ground, sustaining injuries from which he died today.
He was an habitual sleep walker.

PRISONER WOULD RETURN COUGHLIN BABY IF FREED

Hidden Near Atlantic City, Foreigner, Who Opened
Big Bank Account, Says.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—"The Crank," disclosed as August Pascol of New Gretna, N. J., refuses to reveal the whereabouts of little Blakley Coughlin unless he receives immunity in the kidnapping.

He is bartering now to exchange the child, stolen from his parents' home in Norristown, Pa., on June 2, for his freedom. Pascol said he has gone so far as to admit the 13-month-old baby is hidden in Atlantic City.

Important developments in the case are expected today following the disclosure early today that "The Crank's" name is August Pascol, of French and Italian extraction, who until recently lived in this city.

Pascol was identified this afternoon as August Pasquale, said by the police to be a notorious crook.
The announcement was made by George H. Leonard, chief postal inspector, who has been active in running the kidnaper to earth.

The police are working on the theory that the child is being held by a hand of criminals, Pasquale, who also is known to the police as John Pons and Harry Williams, served sentences in Elmira, N. Y., Newark, N. J., and in the Philadelphia County prison. He was released in March of this year.

According to Leonard, Pasquale said today he was hired by a man to go to New Jersey and hang out the white sheet which was to serve as a signal to the father of the kidnaped child.

Woman Long Suspected as Having a Part in the Kidnaping, Looms Up Afresh Today.

An acquaintance of Pascol's while he lived here says he knows Pascol and a woman friend. The State police and postal agents are now on their track and believe she has the child.

Pascol is still being grilled by the State police. He was arrested in New Gretna after his escape Monday near Egg Harbor.

Pascol only recently bought a farm at New Gretna and drove from that city in a motor car last Thursday to take possession. He is said to have taken three or four rifles and a quantity of liquor to the New Jersey farm.

Pascol, the police learned today, opened an account with a Philadelphia bank June 21, four days after the father of the kidnaped child had placed $15,000 in the bank near his home. The mysterious letter writer signing himself "The Crank" had directed that this be done as preliminary to the return of the child.

Pays for New Home.

The first deposit was $1000. Later, large sums were added. On Monday morning, before his arrest, Pascol paid the balance due on his new home in New Gretna with a certified check of the Philadelphia bank.
Pascol is described by the lodging house keeper with whom he lived in this city six weeks as being very agreeable.

"He came to me early in June," he said. "He was a good-looking man and well-dressed. There was nothing about him to excite suspicion.
He did not seem to be a bad man,
though he got drunk occasionally."

Inspectors confirmed the dramatic story of the methods used in trapping and capturing the man suspected of being the kidnaper. According to the story, the Coughlins recently received more letters demanding $10, 000 for the return of the child. Corespondence with the writer was carried on through newspaper advertisements and it was arranged that Coughlin should drop the money in a box from a railroad train between Camden and Atlantic City, when he saw a white sheet flying from a tree. Coughlin boarded the train, saw the white sheet a short distance from Egg Harbor, and threw out the box. State policemen observed a man come from the woods, pick up something and disappear. He was traced through the timber and captured.

Turkish Bath Robbers Get $10,000.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—While 175 persons in the Lenox Turkish Baths were sleeping early today, five robbers entered the establishment and,
after holding up five attendants, escaped with about $10,000 worth of valuables checked by the sleepers.

BOY HIT ON ARM BY ANOTHER WITH FIST DEVELOPS TETANUS

Edward Wylie, 8, in Serious Condition and Amputation May Be Necessary.

Edward Wylie, 8 years old, son of Frank Wylie, a stationery fireman, of 1226 Madison street, developed tetanus as the result of a fist blow on the right arm inflicted by Joseph Kowalski, 8 years old, of 1215 Clipton street, a playmate, and in a serious condition at Deaconess Hospital, where surgeons say that the arm may have to be amputated.

The Wylie boy was hit Tuesday evening when he and the Kowalski lad were playfully reaching their strength near their homes. The arm was bruised, but nothing was thought of the injury until yesterday, when the arm began swelling.
A physician was called when the arm had swollen to about five times its normal size, and he advised immediate removal to a hospital. Last night the boy was delirious, but this morning was reported to be resting easily. A consultation will be held today to determine if amputation is necessary.

FARE INCREASES TO INVALIDATE ANY ROUND TRIP TICKETS OUT

Unused Mileage and Commutation
Tickets Also May Be Affected
By Advance.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Return tickets and mileage books bought before the higher fares allowed railroads last Saturday become effective, will not be valid when the new schedule goes into effect, it was said yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

How the commission will handle the problem of tickets purchased before the new fares are made operative for use after their effective date is now being worked out, it was said.
Commission officials emphasized,
however, that travel for the present prices would not be permitted after the effective date of the new levels.

It is expected that an order will be issued permitting the railroads to return the amount paid for return tickets unused mileage and commutation books, or that passengers will be allowed to use them on payment of the additional charges authorized.

Unless some such method is adopted, it was pointed out, tickets could be purchased for future use in large quantities which would result in postponing the effective date of the higher fares.

"BOYS, I'M READY FOR THE FIGHT," DECLARES GOV. COX

Democratic Nominee Speaks From Boxing Arena at Dayton Pit.

By the Associated Press.
DAYTON, O., Aug. 5.—A fighting message to Democrats and Republicans was given by Gov. Cox, the former's presidential nominee, in an address yesterday at a local Democratic picnic.

Speaking from a roped arena for boxing events on the picnic program
Gov. Cox, avoiding definite issues, declared he would meet the offensive in a "considerable fight" for which he predicted success. Incidentally he promised that his address next Saturday accepting the presidential standard could be understood "even by school children."

"Boys, I'm ready for the fight," he declared to the cheering plaudits of several hundred members of the Gen. City Democratic Club of this city.

nes Aires, accompanied by his wife, announced today that he soon would with the Conservatives.

The new Marchioness also announced her intention to take part be a candidate for Parliament as a member of the Liberal coalition.

U. S. FOR FRANCE, SAYS ROOT

That Is His Answer When Asked About Treaty.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

question, "Do American political circles desire the full application of the Versailles peace treaty?" put to him
by a reporter for the Petit Journal, Elihu Root said the American people highly favorable to the interests of France.

Root declined to make a statement regarding the presidential election, merely saying, "I'm no prophet."

REDS, 53 MILES FROM WARSAW, CONTINUE DRIVE TOWARD CITY

BRITISH PREMIER TELLS COMMONS SOVIETS MUST MAKE PEACE WITH POLES

Indicates Blockade May Be Established, Munitions Supplied and Other Nations Urged to Send Troops to Front.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 5.—Leo Kamenef-f, President of the Moscow Soviet, is reported to have sent a message to his Government asking that Russia accept immediately the original British proposals for an armistice with Poland.

Kamenef, it is said, sent his message after he and Krassin, the Russian Minister of Trade and Commerce, had a very plain talk with Premier Lloyd George and Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the House of Commons, last night. Up to the middle of this afternoon no reply had been received.

Kamenef and Krassin are members of the Russian constitution which came here to conduct negotiations looking to the restoration of trade between Great Britain and Russia.

In a statement in the House of Commons today regarding last evening's conference with the Soviet delegates, Premier Lloyd George said he and Bonar Law made it clear to Krassin and Kamenef that the immediate conclusion of an armistice which would remove suspicion that the Soviet Government was not sincere in its professed desire for peace, and in its declaration that it intended to respect the liberty and independence of Poland.

Would Move Military Supplies.
Premier Lloyd George added that he and Bonar Law also made it clear that, in view of the fact that ethnographical Poland had been recreated, "We would take effective steps to remove obstacles in the way of transmission to Poland from Danzig of military supplies which could be obtained from that quarter."

"I think, in view of the critical state of affairs I would rather not make any further statement this afternoon, but should unfortunately our suspicions be confirmed, I shall make a full statement to the House Monday as to such further naval or military action which it may be necessary to take."

He said the whole subject of the proposed peace conference in London had been jeopardized by the Soviet army's advance.

Premier Lloyd George stated that the Soviet had not yet replied to Great Britain's note of July 29, proposing the London peace conference.
He read the text of another note sent to the Soviet Government last Tuesday, which said that, if the Soviet insisted in making peace with Poland to the exclusion of other Powers, then the project for the London peace conference would have fallen through.

Asked whether the allies contemplated tightening the Russian blockade, the Premier said: "I hope we will be necessary to take steps to tighten the blockade; that must necessarily depend on an answer received from us."

SCHEME FOR HOME RULE PROPOSED BY IRISH COMMITTEE

Nationalists and Unionists Agree on Plan for Autonomous Government Under Dominion Status.

LLOYD GEORGE MEETS DELEGATIONS TWICE

View Is Held by Members of Parliament That Conference and Cabinet Meeting Are Significant.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 5.—Premier Lloyd George was told at his conference with the Irish delegation he received yesterday that great progress has been made among Irish Unionists during the last few months in favor of a broad policy giving self-government to the people of that island, says the London Times. The delegation was unanimous and strong in its denunciation of the Government's Irish crime bill, and was also strongly opposed to any scheme for the partition of the island. Fiscal autonomy also was demanded.

Capt. Harrison, secretary of the Irish Dominion League, submitted on behalf of the delegation a scheme based upon recognition of the dominion status of Ireland, followed by the inauguration of a constituent assembly elected under a system of proportional representation on a wide, democratic franchise. He also suggested that the six counties of Ulster should be omitted, after consultation, to vote themselves out of an all-Ireland scheme, subject to the right of the rest of Ireland to withdraw any concessions offered by a majority of the Irish people for the purpose of securing the admission of Ulster.

Lloyd George received the delegation of Irish Unionists and Nationalists from Dublin and Cork twice. The delegation was headed by Sir Stanley Harrington, Commissioner for Education in Ireland, and included a number of prominent local men, among them Prof. Wilfrid F. Fitzgibbon of Trinity College, Dublin.

With Lloyd George were Andrew Bonar-Law, Lord Privy Seal, Sir Hammer Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, and other Ministers. An official report of the conference will be issued shortly. The conference was a private one, but at it there occurred a sympathetic discussion of the entire Irish situation.

Between the conferences with the Irishmen, Lloyd George and Bonar-Law received Lord Kiamoff, off, President of the Moscow Soviet, and Krassin, and other members of the Russian mission which has come to London in an endeavor to solve the trade situation between Great Britain and Russia. This was the first official reception of the Russians since their return to London. The discussion was confined to the Polish crisis.

The Premier's reception twice of the Cork and Dublin delegations caused comment last night in the lobby of the House of Commons. It was said that the Premier's solicitude in receiving the delegation was highly significant. The meeting at Cork, at which it was decided to send the delegation to London, only occurred Tuesday.

It is an open secret that the Premier favors dominion home rule as a solution of the controversy and has been held back by the conservative elements in the Cabinet. Therefore, additional significance attaches to the fact that a full meeting of the Cabinet was held between the two receptions of the delegation.

REDS, WITHIN 53 MILES OF WARSAW, CONTINUE SMASH TOWARD CITY

Some wounded men from these detachments have already arrived here, many of them being boys who left school when the country called its men to arms against the Soviet army.

Lomza Captured by Russians. Lomza, an important city about 75 miles northeast of Warsaw, was taken by the Bolsheviks after being defended for many days by the Poles, according to an announcement at the Foreign Office.

Gen. Romer and his colleagues on the Polish armistice commission will go to Minsk today to meet representatives of Soviet Russia and attempt to halt hostilities between the two countries. Credentials giving the commission authority to engage in negotiations preliminary to a treaty of peace, as well as to arrange for an armistice, have been prepared.

The Polish commission arrived here yesterday morning from Baranovitch, where it was confronted with the Soviet's demand for the

Gen. Maurice Defends Operations of Bolsheviks

British Officer Writes, in London Paper, That Soviet Government Has Not Acted Contrary to War Customs.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Aug. 5.—Major-General Maurice, writing to the Daily News, says: "A great deal of rubbish is being talked about Bolshevik treachery in the negotiations for an armistice with Poland. In war the victor is entitled to exact such terms as seem to him good from the vanquished, and the fact that he announces his readiness to negotiate implies no obligation to cease hostilities or accept any particular terms."

"In 1918 the fighting went on until the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month, though the German plenipotentiaries had signed an armistice some hours before, and had been within our lines for about 24 hours. We rejected the armistice, and in so doing acted in a perfectly normal, legitimate manner."

"The Soviet Government has up to the present not acted in any way contrary to the laws and customs of war. It is to be hoped they will have the good sense to see that if they drive Poland too far and attempt to impose terms to which we and France would not agree they will be cutting their own throats on the weapon which the Supreme Council possesses in the blockade and it is a very terrible weapon."

"If it has to be applied it will complete the ruin of Russia and almost certainly lead to the overthrow of Lenin and Trotsky. It is not now likely that the terms of the armistice will be settled for the next five or six days, but the fact is not the smallest likelihood that the Russians will be in Warsaw by then."

"There have been severe rains lately and the ground has become difficult, while there is a natural tendency for the advance to slow down as the lines of communication lengthen."

Situation as Grave as That in 1914, British Official Says.
LONDON, Aug. 5.—Among British officials and diplomats of other nations here undisguised anxiety is felt over the Russo-Polish situation. One official said:

"On a situation as grave as that in August, 1914."

"Two thousand fugitives from the situation which came from London today follow the development of last night, when a conference was held between General Lloyd George and his right hand man, Andrew Bonar Law, on the one hand, and M. M. Kamenoff and Krassin, two of the Soviet emissaries in London, on the other, under which the reported message from M. Kamenoff to his Government asking that it accept immediately the original British proposal for an armistice with Poland was dispatched, and a reply was being awaited."

Most of the C. W. C. women, it was stated at national headquarters, are either of Polish parentage or Polish descent and come from throughout the United States. Most of them were in Poland months before the present conflict between the Poles and Soviets. They have been engaged in distributing food and clothing to civilians, particularly children.

Miss Krutewicz resided at 2111 North Thirteenth street and Miss Krasinski at 104 O'Fallon street. The five left here Nov. 27 and sailed from New York Dec. 1 for Poland, going as members of the Polish Gray Samaritans, an organization similar to the American Red Cross. There were 20 in the party.

Miss Michalowska was in charge of a children's hospital in Warsaw. The others visited the destitute families of soldiers and relief work among them, according to letters received here after their arrival in Poland.

THREE PERSONS HURT WHEN AUTO AND MOTORCYCLE COLLIDE

Three persons were injured at 2 o'clock this afternoon when an automobile driven by Dr. Kirby Garner, 38 years old, of 3015 Arsenal street, collided with a motor cycle at Cherokee street and Minnesota avenue. Dr. Garner suffered bruises and lacerations when thrown through the windshield of the automobile.

Joe Birmingham, 20, of 1715 Locust avenue, who was riding the motor cycle, suffered injuries to his back and scalp wounds. In the side car of the motor cycle with him was a young man said to be Roy Kraft. He was unconscious when taken to the city hospital. The other injured men were also taken there.

Experts Say Bolshevik Aim Is to Cut Off Polish Sea Corridor.

PARIS, Aug. 5.—The French military advisers at Warsaw have reported to the Government here that the prime objective of the Bolshevik army operating against the Poles at the moment is to cut off the Polish sea corridor, including Danzig, rather than the capture of Warsaw, which they say would follow soon afterwards.

The cutting of the corridor would mean the severing of the direct railroad line extending from Danzig to Warsaw, over which the vast bulk of munitions for the Polish army is arriving, and also the other railroads running from Danzig into Poland. The Bolshevik cavalry was less than 30 miles from this railroad last Tuesday.

The experts add that the Bolsheviks are boasting that they will offer the territory of the Polish sea corridor to Germany, as the Bolsheviks do not recognize the treaty of Versailles.

Bug River, Poland's Marne, Abandoned Almost Without Fight

PARIS, Aug. 5.

By the Associated Press.
The Poles have scored a great military victory over the Poles, who are reported to have been forced to abandon the Bug River line and possibly will be compelled to relinquish Warsaw.

According to the latest reports reaching Paris, the Polish army, for the time being at least, has gone to pieces and the Bolshevik columns advancing in echelon in accordance with approved German technique are enveloping Warsaw simultaneously from the north and east.

The Bug River, Poland's Marne, has gone almost without a fight, compelling the Poles to make a rapid retreat and shorten their front which some of the Poles have been likely to bring the Poles to the Vistula and San Rivers and involve the abandonment of half the country to the invaders.

ST. LOUIS WOMEN TO LEAVE POLAND

Five From This City in Y. W. C. A. Relief Organization to Move from Warsaw.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Thirty-seven Polish-American Y. W. C. A. workers in Poland, five of whom are from St. Louis, are planning to leave that country soon unless an armistice is signed suspending hostilities between Poland and Soviet Russia.

The St. Louisans are Pelicia Krutewicz, Krutewicz, Katherine Krzyzankowska, Anna Michalowska and Valentina Smentkowska.

A cable message today to national Y. W. C. A. headquarters from Miss Martha A. Chickering of Piedmont, Cal., in general charge of the work in Warsaw, read: "All well. Leaving soon unless armistice." The decision to quit Poland is understood to be the result of a recommendation by the American Relief Administration in Poland that all women workers leave before the country is overrun by Bolshevik soldiers. It is probable that the workers will go to Danzig, where the American relief organization is to establish a base.

Most of the C. W. C. women, it was stated at national headquarters, are either of Polish parentage or Polish descent and come from throughout the United States. Most of them were in Poland months before the present conflict between the Poles and Soviets. They have been engaged in distributing food and clothing to civilians, particularly children.

PLAN FOR FOREIGN BORN VOTERS MAY HURT CANDIDATES

Harding's Speech Against League Said to Have "Touched Fuse That May Burn Fingers."

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright, 1920.)

MARION, O., Aug. 5.—Senator Harding has touched off a fuse in the presidential campaign that is more than likely to burn the fingers of both the Republican and Democratic candidates.

For, admittedly, the question of the prejudices and wishes of the foreign-born voters in America is one of the most delicate of all political questions to handle. The Senator, in his front-porch speech to Wayne County Republicans, struck out boldly against the League of Nations as a "world experiment" which threatened the record of American citizenship because, as he said, it is "folly to think of trying to blend aliens in American unity when the land of their adoption is in judgment on the land from which they came."

Now the truth is, the League of Nations has been attacked on the ground that it would cause friction among foreign-born residents in the United States and defended on the basis that American cosmopolitanism would be the useful factor in mediating disputes that might arise between the League and the United States. The interesting thing is that, in both the Republican and Democratic campaign headquarters, there are to be found this year, as in every other year, the same old, same old, same old, designed to curtail the foreign-born vote.

To the Irish voters the Republicans are appealing for support on the ground that the League of Nations would enable America for the first time to approach England officially and make the matter of Irish self-determination an international, instead of a purely domestic question, as England claims it is.

Italians and Flume.

To the Italian voters the Republicans are appealing for support because of President Wilson's supposed antipathy to Italian aspirations in the Flume question. The Democrats would probably be happy to see the Flume controversy settled as a proof of Italian approval of the concert of nations.

To the German voters, the appeal of the Republicans need not be more than an emphasis on Wilsonism, which is still an abhorrent term among those German-Americans who felt the sting of participation in the war was unnecessary, or among those who thought the German "sympathizer" was too loosely applied. On the other hand, if the German-American voters were influenced by the wishes of the country of their birth, they would side with the Democrats, who want to see the League of Nations established, because it is a fact that Germany fully expected the United States to be a member of the all-important Reparations Commission and to help keep down the size of the indemnity.

It is a striking confirmation of the American viewpoint expressed at the Paris conference by President Wilson that the imposition of an unlimited indemnity now has been abandoned and especially the inability of American influence in the League of Nations to get her a "square deal." But it is a serious question how much German sympathizers in America are in touch with the desires of the fatherland and how much more vital to them is the expression of a protest against the Democratic administration which offended them during the war.

Appeal to Poles.

To the Poles, the Republicans and Democrats will present different aspects of Poland's plight. The Democrats will say the troubles in Poland today are due to neglect by the Poles and especially the inability of America to help through the League of Nations; while the Republicans would answer that, if this be true, President Wilson's stubbornness kept America from being in the league to render that help.

Among the Czech-Slovak and Jugoslavians, the assistance already rendered by America to the new republics in Central Europe will be used to political advantage in the claiming of credit by the Democrats for the part played by President Wilson in the establishment of those countries and by the Republicans for the financial assistance and relief rendered in Austria, and elsewhere in Central Europe, by Herbert Hoover, who has announced his resignation as Secretary of Commerce.

Senator Harding's Attitude.

But fundamentally, Harding has opened up wide the question of the sympathies of the foreign-born in the event that a dispute arises between the United States and the country of their birth. The dissensions inside America when the United States got into conflict with Germany occurred, say the Democrats, when there was no League of Nations and they declare moreover that the Irish-Americans have sat in the lobbies of Congress and influenced the passage of resolution after resolution offensive to Great Britain. On the other hand, Wilson himself has contended that, because America was made up of various nationalities, her people could bring friendly influence to

REPUBLICANS TO NAME NEW CITY CHAIRMAN TUESDAY

Nat Goldstein Says Post Probably Will Go to Member Not Holding City Job—Schmoll to Continue in Politics.

The new Republican City Committee, elected at Tuesday's primary, met next Tuesday at the committee headquarters, in the Odd Fellows' building, to elect a chairman, to succeed John Schmoll, who failed of re-election to the committee.

Politicians Express Opinion That Both W. L. Cole and Ben M. Neale Will Be Replaced.

Nat Goldstein, Circuit Clerk, and leader of the "Court House Ring," of the committee before the primary, said today that he believed the new chairman would be some member who is not a city jobholder. This narrows the field of choice greatly, as a majority of the committee, even since the changes made by the primary, are on the city payroll.

HEADS OF TICKETS TO BE CONSULTED

Lieut.-Gov. Crossley Mentioned by Democrats, Don C. McVey of Trenton by Republicans.

The results of Tuesday's primary makes certain, in the opinion of informed politicians, that at the meeting of the Republican and Democratic State Committees at the State conventions of candidates Sept. 14, W. L. Cole of Union, chairman of the Republican committee, and Ben M. Neale of Greenfield, chairman of the Democratic committee, will be replaced by others more acceptable to the nominees for United States Senator and Governor.

There is a strong possibility that Lieutenant-Governor Wallace Crossley will be chosen to head the Democratic committee, and that Don C. McVey of Trenton will head the Republican committee.

Neale's replacement is expected because of the party division of the League of Nations, Neale having suffered the enmity of the following of Senator Reed because of his insistence that the State committee go on record in favor of the league, and now being the desire of the practical politicians connected with the Democratic party organization to wield an influence which will prevent the Reed followers from bolting the ticket at the November election.

Atkinson Friendly to Crossley. Crossley has maintained a very much middle-of-the-road policy on the league, which probably would make him acceptable to the Reed element, but which has been so very neutral that he may encounter serious opposition from the members of the organization who have stood firm in favor of the league. He has expressed himself in favor of the league, but last summer opposed Neale's plan to have the committee announce the party declaration on the subject.

Atkinson, it is known, has a friendly feeling toward Crossley. Crossley having withdrawn as a candidate against Atkinson for the nomination for Governor. His withdrawal is thought to have increased Atkinson's vote as his strength and that of Atkinson conflicted in several parts of the State. There have been rumors that the chairmanship of the committee was discussed in conference between Atkinson and Crossley, but there has been no confirmation of the report. Usually the wishes of the candidates for Governor are followed in the selection of chairman of the committee, but it is probable the committee will select a man who is not a candidate.

On the Republican side, Arthur M. Hyde, the nominee for Governor, and Senator Spencer are said to be of one mind that Cole shall not be re-elected, though Cole before the primary said he intended to seek re-election as a vindication of his course in handling campaign funds for Harding, the nominee for president. Spencer and Cole formerly were close political friends and Cole was Spencer's first secretary in Washington. They disagreed, however, after Cole failed to be elected a member of the German Communist Labor party, was arrested here today at the request of New York authorities.

Hyde and Spencer Against Cole. On the Republican side, Arthur M. Hyde, the nominee for Governor, and Senator Spencer are said to be of one mind that Cole shall not be re-elected, though Cole before the primary said he intended to seek re-election as a vindication of his course in handling campaign funds for Harding, the nominee for president. They disagreed, however, after Cole failed to be elected a member of the German Communist Labor party, was arrested here today at the request of New York authorities.

McVey, who in some quarters, is considered Hyde's probable choice, is 31 years old, and about the size of a few weeks' rest before the State conventions which will adopt the party platforms. All candidates for State, congressional, judicial and legislative offices will be members of the conventions. The Democrats usually have their candidates' convention in Jefferson City. Two years ago the Republicans met in St.

DAUES LEADING JUDGE REYNOLDS BY SMALL MARGIN

Returns From St. Louis and Incomplete Reports From 16 of 23 Counties Give Counselor 912 Lead.

A close finish in the contest for the Republican nomination for Judge of the St. Louis Court of Appeals between Judge George D. Dues and City Counselor Charles H. Dues is indicated by unofficial returns received by the Post-Dispatch today from 16 of the 23 counties in the court district outside of St. Louis.

Added to the St. Louis figures these county returns show a vote of 41,043 for Dues and 40,131 for Reynolds, giving Dues a lead of 912. His lead in the city alone was 1808.

The returns in hand include Cape Girardeau County, where Dues formerly lived, and where he has an unofficial plurality of 1447. In 11 of the other counties Reynolds leads and in four Dues leads.

The counties remaining to be heard from are Monroe, Pike, Lincoln, Lewis, Marion, Ralls and Madison. Dues backed by "Ring."

Dues had the backing of St. Louis Mayor Kiel and of the "court house ring" of City Commissioners. Judge Reynolds was endorsed by a majority of the St. Louis Republican lawyers voting in the poll conducted by the Bar Association. The lawyers of the district outside St. Louis were not polled.

Dues said this morning that information received by him by telephone from a majority of the counties outside St. Louis had led him to believe he had been nominated. Judge Reynolds said he had received no information from outside the city.

A few precincts are lacking in some of the counties from which the Post-Dispatch has received returns.

Vote So Far Reported. The vote as shown in the Post-Dispatch poll of counties, together with the city vote, is:

	Dues	Reynolds
Audrain	112	278
Cape Girardeau	1,838	389
Clark	108	287
Franklin	1,443	1,405
Jefferson	418	467
Knox	43	177
Montgomery	404	492
Perry	460	256
St. Charles	1,195	1,227
St. Francois	645	795
Ste. Genevieve	182	239
St. Louis	3,600	4,929
Scotland	43	164
Shelby	53	206
Warren	597	506
Washington	177	440
City of St. Louis	29,718	27,910
Totals	41,043	40,131

With a lead of 912, and 7 counties to hear from, Dues can afford to lose an average of less than 130 votes in each of these counties. Changes to be made by the addition of missing precincts, and by the official count, add to the uncertainty of the final result.

Rodgers Leads Thomson. Figures on the Democratic vote for the Court of Appeals nomination from nine counties outside St. Louis, show a net lead of 83 for Hickman P. Rodgers. As Rodgers had a plurality of 10,488 over L. R. Thomson in the city of St. Louis, the returns from the other counties will not change the result materially.

SENATOR GARDNER CONCEDES DEFEAT; TO QUIT POLITICS

Has Represented District in Upper Branch of the State Legislature for the Last 16 Years.

A. E. L. Gardner of Kirkwood, who has been State Senator from the Twenty-fifth District for 16 years and a member of the lower house of the Legislature for four years previously, conceded today that he had been defeated for re-nomination by Prosecuting Attorney Richard F. Ralph of St. Louis County, Gardner, who is 49 years old, declared he was out of politics for good, "unless he got in a little to help a friend."

Unofficial returns from the three counties comprising the district, St. Louis, Franklin and Gasconade, last night gave Ralph a lead of 2381 votes. These returns were incomplete, but the results in the 15 precincts remaining out are not expected to have much effect on the net result.

Gardner conceded Ralph a majority of at least 1000 votes in St. Louis County, but said he could not predict what the results in the other counties would be.

Platforms of Candidates. Gardner made his race on a platform opposed to annexation of portions of St. Louis County by the city, opposed to the promiscuous gambling that has been going on in St. Louis County, and favoring an anti-annexation platform and with the promise that he would not take employment from any corporation.

Fred Essen, Republican boss of the county, who was Ralph's backer, made many charges that Gardner was biased by his employment as a corporation attorney.

Gardner and Ralph are both Republicans. Nomination by that party in St. Louis County is considered equivalent to election.

"I am tickled to death that I am done with public life," Gardner declared. "I had a good time while it lasted and will devote the rest of my life to the practice of law."

Essen to Quit Politics. In his turn, Essen said this morning that he was "through" with an active interest in politics. "I will never again bring out a candidate for public office," he said. "I backed Ralph to defeat Gardner because of his political treachery to me."

"While I was in Congress in 1918 I worked hard to help my constituents. I succeeded in getting many of the county boys out of the army when the war was over so that they could come home and help their parents. Meanwhile, Gardner started his paper in Clayton (the St. Louis County seat) and charged me with being a traitor to the state."

Essen served in Congress for four months in 1918 to fill the unexpired term of the late Jacob Meeker. He unsuccessfully opposed Meeker for the election in 1916, and it is a matter of public knowledge that his enmity with Gardner dates from that time. He charged that Gardner was jealous of him then, opposed his candidacy and advised him not to run. Formerly a Republican, Gardner, and J. R. Ferguson, 3208 Olive street, Republican clerk, told the Election Commissioners that they saw no irregularities, and that the official count of the ballots in the precinct was accurate.

The returns credited Slater with 1111 votes for committeeman, to 527 for Patton.

When the commissioners informed Homer G. Phillips, negro attorney, who escorted Abbot to the office, that they would accept the official returns as reported by the majority of election officials in the precinct, Phillips said he would submit the matter to the Circuit Attorney.

terday gave Hyde a plurality of 1740 over McElhinney in the contest for Governor, and Dues a plurality of 2232 for Senator, Spencer running second.

Other candidates for State offices who so far appear the leaders in the county vote, and their pluralities, follow:

Lieutenant-Governor, Lloyd, 1281; Secretary of State, Becker, 2513; Auditor, Hackmann, 5284; Treasurer, Thompson, 4616; Attorney-General, Barrett, 2704; Judge of Supreme Court, Division No. 1 (unexpired term), Elder, 2137; same, Division No. 2, Higbee, 2238; Judge of Supreme Court, Division No. 2 (regular term), Hodgdon, 4533; Representative, Tenth Congressional District, Newton, unopposed.

The Democratic returns have not been canvassed.

The Prosecuting Attorney now gets $4000 a year, and his assistants $1500 a month. Ralph said he would seek to have the pay increased when he becomes a member of the Legislature. McElhinney has been clerk in the office for nearly two years. It is expected that he and First Assistant J. C. Kiskaddon will be continued in office by Mueller, who is expected to win the election. Kiskaddon was appointed to the vacancy caused when his son, Andrew Kiskaddon, joined the legal staff of a railroad here.

NEGRO JUDGE OF ELECTION CHARGES FRAUD IN RETURNS

Minister Declares Constable Handled and Marked Ballots When Totals Were Being Tabulated.

The Rev. R. F. Abbott, a negro, of 3212 Pine street, pastor of the Union Memorial Church, who was a Republican judge of election in the Twelfth Precinct of the Seventeenth Ward, the polling place of which was at 3310 Olive street, visited the Election Board's office today, and told Commissioners Arnold and Dempsey that he saw Floyd Bush, Constable in the Fourth Justice of the Peace District, handling ballots and marking some of them when the primary returns were being tabulated Tuesday evening.

Abbott said that he refused to sign the returns and that, when he asked Constable Bush, who had been stationed at the polling place as a Republican watcher, for an explanation of his conduct, the latter replied that he was correcting mistakes.

Abbott said that when the polls were closed 170 votes had been cast in the precinct, but that the tabulation of the officials showed a total of 179 votes, 98 of which were credited as Republican ballots. He said that he counted only 41 Republican ballots, and that Vaughn, the negro candidate for Congress in the Twelfth District, received 22 votes, and Patton, the negro candidate for Republican committeeman in the Seventeenth Ward, received 25 votes. The official count, he said, did not give Vaughn or Patton credit for having received any votes.

Others Ignored His Protest. The Democratic candidates in the Twelfth District are E. V. Chase, Joseph P. Nick and John J. Tatten, and in the Sixth, R. M. Wray and John Keegan.

Firm Refuses to Move Even When Doors Are Taken Out. Wrecking of Adjoining Offices Fails to Induce Shoe Company to Relocate.

Wrecking of offices on both sides and removal of doors and windows from the wholesale shoe establishment of L. Goldman, 1330 Washington street, failed to induce the firm to move. The Goldman office still stands, surrounded by the wreckage of the places formerly occupied by the Lee James Woolen Co. and the Harry Friedman Co.

The firms occupying the property, including the Goldman company, were notified to move 90 days ago by the Board of Trustees of the Missouri Botanical Garden, owners. Friedman and James got out, but Goldman refused, standing on a clause of his lease which required him to be given notice and exempted him from moving unless his property was sold. The Friedman and James offices then were destroyed.

Negotiations for the sale have not been successful, according to M. Goldman, manager. The firm bases its refusal on its inability to obtain other quarters now, in mid-season. Doors and windows of the Goldman quarters were torn out on orders of the trustees, but were replaced according to Goldman. The Goldman firm will file damage suits if its stock is injured.

41 INDICTED IN RAIL STRIKE; "LEAK" TO BE INVESTIGATED. Reporters of Newspapers Which Printed List in Advance to Be Subpoenaed, Judge Says.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Indictments against 41 leaders in the recent railroad strikes, which Judge Samuel Alschuler refused to receive yesterday because of names of those indicted had become public through a "leak" several hours before the Federal grand jury completed its report, were returned today.

Judge Alschuler ordered the indictments placed under seal until investigation of the "leak" is completed. Reporters of afternoon papers who published the list are to be subpoenaed, the Court announced.

The published list named John Grunau and Harold Reading, presidents of the two new rail unions which called the strike, and a number of officers of the two unions in Chicago, New York, San Francisco, Columbus, Cleveland, Philadelphia and other cities.

NEGROES WIN TWO NOMINATIONS HERE FOR LEGISLATURE

Sixth District, Including West End Wards, and Third District Republicans Name Harrison and Moore.

Two negroes won Republican nominations for the Missouri Legislature from St. Louis districts in Tuesday's primary. They are Langston Harrison of 2311A Market street, one of the three nominees in the Third District, and Waltham M. Moore, 3035 Pine street, one of the two nominees in the Sixth District.

Both these districts were represented by Republicans in the last Legislature. The Sixth District included the Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth wards, the principal West End residence wards. It extends west from Jefferson avenue to the city limits, following the general boundary lines of Laclede and Easton avenues. The Third District runs from the river to Jefferson avenue, between Cass and Chouteau avenues, with some variations in the boundaries.

Two other negroes sought nominations for the Legislature in the primary, one in the Sixth District and one in the Fifth. There were two negro candidates for the nomination for Congress in the Twelfth District, against Representative Dyer, three negro candidates for the Republican City Committee, and one for the Seventeenth Ward vacancy in the Board of Aldermen.

In the Third District, Harrison ran second among five candidates, his plurality over the highest losing candidate being 517. The white nominee in this district is J. A. Razovsky, 1026 North Fourteenth street, a member of the last Legislature, and Maurice Rothschild, 1807 Market street.

Moore's plurality in the Sixth District was 672. The white candidate running with him is William E. Caulfield, 6243 Maple avenue, who had a plurality of 2263. There were eight candidates for the two nominations in the Sixth.

The Democratic candidates in the Third District are E. V. Chase, Joseph P. Nick and John J. Tatten, and in the Sixth, R. M. Wray and John Keegan.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Aug. 5.—Miss Alice Robertson, who was Postmaster under President Roosevelt, and a Republican candidate for Congress in the Second Congressional District in Tuesday's primary, last night appeared to have won the nomination, according to incomplete and unofficial returns.

It was officially reported, however, that Miss Robertson carried both Muskegon and McIntosh Counties, winning over R. B. Butts of Muskegon and Orlando Swain of Okmulgee.

"CHILDREN'S ARK" ON WAY TO PETROGRAD WITH 782 REFUGEES

Gifts Showered Upon Little Ones When Ship Carrying Them From Siberia Stops in U. S.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—The second lap of the long sea journey from Siberia to Petrograd was undertaken today by 782 refugee Russian children when the Japanese liner Yone I Maru, chartered by the American Red Cross and designated as the "Children's Ark," weighed anchor in San Francisco Bay and steamed for the Panama Canal.

The children arrived here Monday and were the guests of the city and the Red Cross chapters for three days. Gifts of toys, fruit and candy were showered upon them during their stay.

The children were sent into interior Russia during the several revolutionary movements. At the end of the war it was found impossible to return them overland to Petrograd because of the collapse of Russian transportation and unsettled conditions in that country. The Red Cross assembled them at Vladivostok from many points and chartered the Yone I Maru to carry them home by sea. The ship will stop at New York.

CANDIDATES INDORSED BY LABOR FARED BADLY. With Few Exceptions Favored Ones Were Defeated in Tuesday's Primary.

With few exceptions candidates endorsed by the nonpartisan political campaign committee of the St. Louis branch of the American Federation of Labor were defeated in the primary election. All candidates claiming to be in favor of the repeal of the Volstead act were re-nominated for support in the sample ballot issued by the committee, as well as were those candidates who gave satisfactory replies to the Federation's questionnaire regarding labor questions.

The sample ballot recommended McKinley and Mayer for Governor. They were defeated by Hyde and Atkinson, "dry" candidates. Minnie Davis and Haddon, all of whom had the support of the Federation's nonpartisan political campaign committee, were defeated by Spencer and Long for United States Senator.

The committee recommended Kinmel, Mrs. Osening, Killoren, Shields, Landauer and Peary for the Circuit bench. Grimm, who was not endorsed, headed the ticket. Kinmel and Killoren were nominated, running second and third, respectively.

The labor ticket urged the nomination of V. H. Brinkman or Schuler for City Treasurer. Dunn, who was not endorsed, was nominated. For State Auditor, Fitzpatrick, Dougherty and Marsh, who were endorsed, were defeated.

Maurice J. Cassidy, secretary of the Building Trades Council, who was a member of the committee, said that the committee was satisfied with the results of the election. He said that the nonpartisan political campaign was an experiment for organized labor, and that the real fight would be at the November election. He said that many union men voted for friends regardless of party, and that the committee will get out another sample ballot before the election.

American Soldier Tells of 17 Months' Life as Prisoner of Bolsheviki

In Tattered Clothing and Nearly Starved, Corporal Prince of Detroit Reaches Finland—14 Months in Hospital.

By the Associated Press.

VIBORG, Finland, Aug. 5.—After 17 months in Soviet Russia, where he was wounded twice and then captured by the Bolsheviki on the Archangel front on March 1, 1919, Corporal Arthur Prince, of the United States Infantry, arrived at the Finnish frontier Saturday night. On board the train with Prince, whose home is in Detroit, were 300 French, Danish and Swedish refugees from Russia, who are being repatriated by their respective governments.

Prince was one of four Americans sent out on this refugee train by the Bolsheviki authorities at Moscow. The others were two correspondents, who crossed Russia from Vladivostok, and Mrs. Emilie Sarmen of New York City, a refugee from Samara. Thirty other Americans, who have gathered at Moscow from various points in Russia and Siberia, are waiting for the American Government to take steps to obtain their release.

In tattered clothing and worn shoes given him by Americans in Moscow, lame from his wounds, and suffering from loss of weight as a result of 14 months of scant diet in Russian hospitals, Corporal Prince has entered for a two weeks' stay the quarantine camp on the Finnish frontier, in accordance with the regulations imposed upon all persons leaving Russia. He will report to the American consulate in Helsinki for communication with the American army authorities as to where he is to report for duty.

Ambushed by Bolsheviki. Seventeen months ago while traversing frozen North Russia south-east of Archangel, Prince and his patrol of seven other Americans were ambushed by the Bolsheviki. Prince was hit in the knee and his leg was broken at the hip, while another bullet struck him in the side as he was crawling toward the American line. The Corporal was captured and placed on a sleigh which started on a trip, requiring five days in zero weather, to Kotlas without knowledge of the people who had made him prisoner or their language. More than a year later when Prince recovered sufficiently he went to the Bolsheviki Foreign Office and asked how to get home. When the Americans in Moscow learned of his presence they cared for him until permission was received for him to take the refugee train to the border.

From Kotlas, where Prince first received medical attention, he was removed by hospital train to Kostroma, in Middle Russia, where he underwent seven months of intense suffering and three operations necessitated by the attempts of the Russian surgeons to treat his broken leg, the tendons of which had become taut on the long journey from the front.

On Sept. 28 last Prince was discharged from a hospital and sent as a prisoner to the Tula concentration camp, comprising anti-Bolshevik prisoners. Here, after 10 days, his wounds necessitated his again going into a hospital and was later transferred to Moscow, 120 miles to the north.

Worst Suffering in Moscow. At Moscow Prince says he experienced the worst sufferings of his entire stay in Russia. The hospital was heated only two hours daily in the November weather; there were untrained nurses, only a few doctors in the hospital and a shortage of medicines. The food conditions were bad. Through the friendship of an English Jew Bolsheviki soldier, who had been wounded while fighting on the southern front, Prince learned of an international hospital maintained by Hungarians in Moscow, where conditions were reported to be better. Permission was obtained for his transfer to this hospital, but in three weeks the hospital authorities had not been able to furnish transportation for him across the city of Moscow. Finally the Englishman, whose wounds did not prevent him from walking, went to the hospital officials and by threats obtained conveyance for himself and Prince. Prince went to the international hospital, from which he was released May 22. Then he was taken to a home formerly maintained by the British in Moscow. In four months he was discharged and sent to a concentration camp for Austrian prisoners arriving from Siberia for repatriation. The French Red Cross here issued him rations, which he cooked himself.

During his 14 months in hospitals Prince said he lived on a daily ration of a quarter of a pound of cooked grain, three-quarters of a pound of black bread, which often was so full of straw that he was unable to eat it; salt herring soup, imitation tea, and an ounce and a half of sugar. He received a pound of tobacco monthly.

As an indication of the rise of prices in recent months in Moscow, Prince says that in May while at the international hospital he paid 190 rubles for a glass of milk from speculators, from which alone milk was obtainable. In July meat was selling for 5000 rubles a pound.

Columbus and New York Newspaper Men With Refugee Party.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 5.—Advices today to the State Department gave the names of the newspaper correspondents who arrived at Viborg, Finland, with other refugees from Russia, as Frank King of Columbus, O., and Harold W. Fay of New York. Arrangements have been made by the American Red Cross, the department was advised, to take care of the refugees.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—Frank King, mentioned in a Washington dispatch as having arrived with other refugees at Viborg, Finland, is a correspondent of the Associated Press. He made the trip across Siberia and European Russia from Vladivostok, and is not a refugee. His graphic story of the arrival of refugees at Viborg was printed today throughout the United States.

HOWAT DEFIES LEWIS AND CALLS MESSAGE AN INSULT

Denies He Called Strike and Refuses to Abide by Instructions That Miners Return.

PITTSBURGH, Kan., Aug. 5.—Alexander M. Howat, president of the Kansas Mine Workers' Union, last night sent a telegram to John L. Lewis, president of the International Union, refusing to abide by instructions received from Lewis yesterday that striking coal miners in Kansas return to work immediately. The reply to Lewis says:

"I received your message this afternoon, which I regard as a direct insult. The cowardly insinuation you have made that I have called the miners on strike at this time is without the least semblance of truth and in conformity with many other statements that you have made. Had you stood as firmly in defense of the mine workers of the country last winter, when they were making such a noble fight to obtain justice at the hands of coal corporations, as you are standing in defense of the operators at this time, there would have been no occasion for the Illinois and Indiana mine workers to cease work to secure another increase in wages. 'You speak of demagogues. I know of no man who is more of a demagogue than yourself. I am ready to compare my record with yours at any time and the miners then may judge for themselves who is a demagogue. If you were as much concerned about the welfare of the miners as you appear to be about the coal operators the condition of the mine workers of the country would be a great deal better than they are today."

TWO MEN HOLD UP

WOMAN IN HER AUTO

Jump on Running Board of Car on King's Highway at 8:30 in Evening.

Mrs. Emma Haas, residing at the Buckingham Annex, King's highway and West Pine boulevard, had just entered her automobile in front of Barnes Hospital, 600 South King's highway, at 8:30 o'clock last night, when two highwaymen, one of whom flourished a revolver, jumped on the running board of her car and ordered her to throw up her hands.

Mrs. Haas failed to comprehend the nature of the command, as the robber used the expression, "Let's go up with them." She asked what he meant, and he replied, "Put 'em up, and be quick about it, for we're in a hurry."

At the same time the robber tried to take a ring from Mrs. Haas' finger. She screamed, and the chauffeur, John Craven, 1010 North Newstead avenue, reached for a crank with which to strike the robber. Mrs. Haas' screams evidently frightened the two men, as they abandoned the effort to get her jewelry and, snatching her purse from her lap, jumped from the car and entered a waiting automobile on the opposite side of the street. A third man was at the wheel of the second car, and he drove into Forest Park.

Mrs. Haas informed the police that she had been visiting at the hospital and was instructing her chauffeur where to go when the robbers jumped on the running board. The purse contained $15, some papers and keys.

MANY SEEK MUSIC POSITION

Pittsburg Man Favored for New Supervisor in City Schools.

The Board of Education has received numerous applications recently from music teachers in nearly all the principal cities of the Middle West for the position of Supervisor of Music in the public schools here, made vacant by the death of E. L. Colburn last spring. Eugene R. Kinn, who conducts a private conservatory here, is the only local applicant.

Supt. Withers says he is in favor of employing William Barhardt of Pittsburg, and has informed the board he believes the latter would demand a salary larger than the $4600 a year now paid, to come here. Board members said yesterday it was hardly likely that the salary for this position would be increased at this time.

ANTI-RAT CAMPAIGN OPENED

Health Officers Use All Cities to Join Fight on Bubonic Plague.

BEAUMONT, Tex., Aug. 5.—Resolutions urging all cities in the United States to adopt rat-proofing ordinances and begin a general clean-up campaign in the fight against bubonic plague, were adopted here at a conference of health authorities from all parts of the country.

Dr. Hugh S. Cumming, Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, was in attendance.

Keeps Hair In Curl on

Hot or Windy Days

Here's a hair-curling secret that is decidely "worth while." Just apply a little liquid salerine before doing up the hair, using a clean toothbrush for the purpose, drawing this down the hair

from crown to tip. In three hours you will have as beautiful curls and waves

as you could wish for. The weakness will look so natural no one will guess it was artificially acquired. And it will last ever so long, regardless of heat, wind or dampness.

You can obtain liquid salerine at any drug store and a few ounces will last a long time. It is neither sticky nor greasy and is pleasant to use. It is highly beneficial because of also serving a beneficial dressing, keeping the hair

soft, silky and lustrous.

THIRD FIRE IN STORE DOES $12,000 DAMAGE

Owner Asks Police to Investigate Series of Blazes, Attributed to Enemies.

Edward Affelder, proprietor of a furniture store at 1122 South Broadway, last night asked the police to investigate a series of three fires in his store since July 4, the last of which did $12,000 damage, while he was out for dinner at 5 p. m. The building is a three-story brick. He reported that the first fire occurred July 4, when he was at lunch. Returning, he said, he found a blaze had started on the second floor among some stored furniture. It was extinguished with slight damage. Aug. 1, he said, on returning from dinner, he discovered another fire on the second floor, this blaze having started in some oil mops. Last evening he locked up the place and went to dinner and found the entire third floor ablaze when he returned. The source could not be traced at that time. Two alarms were sounded.

During the fire Frank Noonan, 34 years old, of 3810 Cook avenue, a member of Salvage Corps No. 2, was cut on the leg by falling glass while covering the stock on the first floor. The fire last night, Affelder said, damaged his stock $10,000 and the building $2000. Harry Freund, 4479 Pershing avenue, owner of the building, said he believed the fires were the work of enemies, but could not give the police any definite clues on which to start work.

Every Day is safer than bottled milk because it's sterilized and richer because the useless water that you pay for in bottled milk has been taken out. BODY OF NEGRESS FOUND WRAPPED IN QUILT IN ALLEY

Numerous Cuts, From Hatchet or Flatiron, on Head and Arms of Form Picked Up in Rear of 1719 N. 11th.

The body of a negress, apparently about 25 or 30 years old, wrapped in a kitchen table oilcloth and red quilt, and tied with rope, was found at 6:15 o'clock this morning in an alley behind 1719 North Eleventh street.

Numerous cuts, which might have been inflicted with a hatchet or a flatiron, were on the head, back and arms. The body was warm and not rigid, indicating that the woman had been dead a short time.

The woman was clothed in a blue skirt, white stockings and an undergarment. A black kid slipper with high French heels was on the left foot. The vest bore the laundry mark, "N. C. 1158. H." An eye-dropper and three white paper packages which had contained powder, but the contents of which had been dissolved by the dampness of the body, were found in one of the stockings.

Evidence of Struggle.
The cuts were on the forehead near the left eye, on the left arm and on the back, between the shoulders. A double row of tooth prints, plainly indented, was on the right arm just below the shoulder. Policemen said that the woman evidently had been in a violent struggle.

Discovery Made by Boy.
Several negro families live in the neighborhood where the body was found. Persons living nearby who visited the morgue were unable to identify the woman. The police have a theory that the body might have been thrown into the alley from a vehicle.

The body was found by Edward Slaznick, 12 years old, of 1728 North Twelfth street, when he was on the way to a bakery.

MYSTERY ABOUT INJURY OF NURSE WITH FRACTURED SKULL

Police Investigating Case of Woman, 51, Who Said She Suffered Fall at 3126 Shenandoah.

A police investigation was begun today to determine the cause of the injury of Mrs. Elizabeth Hackett, 51 years old, a trained nurse, of 3673 Olive street, who was taken to the city hospital last night with a fractured skull.

An ambulance driver who was taking her to the hospital stopped a policeman on the street and asked him to ride with him to the hospital. He said he had taken Mrs. Hackett from 3126 Shenandoah avenue, where she had been injured there.

At the hospital she said she had fallen down a flight of stairs, but was unable to give further details. A policeman who went to 3126 Shenandoah avenue was told no one had been injured there.

LIQUOR WORTH $1500 STOLEN

Whisky and wine valued at about $1500 was stolen by burglars from the home of Joseph L. Hemp Jr., 4273 Flora boulevard, in the absence of the family last night. A basement door and a lock on the wine cellar were forced.

The liquors consisted of two cases of bottled whisky, a 15-gallon jug of whisky and a 15-gallon jug of sherry wine.

WARRANTS-CHARGE SALE OF WHISKY ON ELECTION DAY

Proprietor and Bartender of Saloon at Wellston Accused of Serving Election Officials.

Federal warrants charging the sale of liquor on election day, which is prohibited by special statute, were issued today against Charles Cooney, proprietor of a saloon at Wellston, and his bartender, John W. Steele, who were arrested Tuesday following complaint that whisky was being sold at the saloon to judges, clerks and watchers of election.

Cooney's saloon is at the southwest corner of Easton avenue and the corner of Easton avenue and the diamond street car line, just across the line from the western city limits. Two polling places were within a block of the saloon, on the east and west sides. A telephone message stating that drinks were being served to election officials caused David Nolan, acting prohibition enforcement agent in charge, to investigate. He reported that after he and several assistants had purchased whisky from Steele he ordered the place closed for the day.

This is the only case in which arrests for selling liquor on election day were made in St. Louis or St. Louis County at the primary election Tuesday.

Stop Removal of Tracks.
Edwardsville police yesterday stopped a force of men in the employment of the McKinley system, who had begun to remove the company's track on Second street, north of Dunn street. The paving of Second street recently was ordered, and an assessment of a portion of the cost is listed against the Illinois Traction System. The representatives of the company stated that, as this track was not often used now, it was desired to use the rails in another place.

DENTIST INVOLVED IN DELINQUENCY CASE OF GIRL, 16

Charges Made Against G. J. Forestner, 55, Who, East St. Louis Girl Says, Bought Her Fine Clothes.

A capias was issued from the County Court at Belleville today for the immediate appearance in that court of G. J. Forestner of 3467 Shaw avenue, St. Louis, proprietor of elaborate dental offices at Collinsville and Missouri avenues, East St. Louis, to answer to the charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The action resulted from a delinquency proceeding in the same court Tuesday against Leona Portell Mueh, 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. Julia Mueh, 225 North Sixth street, East St. Louis. The girl recently left her home and occupied a room at 520 North Eighth street, East St. Louis. She admitted, in testifying, that Forestner paid the rent and charge accounts in his name and the privilege of buying anything that she wanted. She admitted that he had bought the fine clothing that she wore.

The delinquency proceeding was the result of a complaint by the girl's mother to Sgt. Ewing of the St. Louis police department, who has charge of delinquency cases. She was adjudged delinquent and arried to her mother who is to take her to the home of her grandfather, Veno Portell, at Cadet, Mo. It was brought out at the hearing that Forestner offered to pay Mrs. Mueh $3500 in settlement of any action that she might bring against him, $500 down and the balance in monthly payments of $60.

Forestner was not at his office when a Deputy Sheriff went there this morning to serve the capias. At his home it was stated that neither he nor his wife was there.

Forestner is about 55 years old. He formerly had dental offices in Belleville. He has been married twice. His present wife was formerly Miss Irma Geel of Belleville, who was his office assistant when he was divorced from his first wife, after she had created a scene in his office and tried to attack Miss Geel.

Clapp has obtained a position as director-general of railroads in Australia, which are controlled by the English Government.

Postal Appeals Court Urged.

A telegram has been sent to President Wilson by the St. Louis Postal Reform Association, urging the establishment of a Court of Appeals to hear cases of postal employees suspended on charges. A delegation of Chicago postal clerks, under charges of political activity for seeking aid in obtaining a wage increase, went to Washington to plead for such a court.

"BOOTLEGGER" TRIES TO JUMP FROM ROOF WHEN ARRESTED

Grocer Flees Upstairs and Drops From Skylight Window, but Is Captured.

Daniel Mazze, a grocer at 5122 North Broadway, tried to jump from the roof of the two-story building at that address yesterday afternoon when prohibition enforcement agents and policemen informed him that he was under arrest for "bootlegging." He had dropped from a skylight window to the edge of the slanting roof and was preparing to leap when one of the officers appeared at the window and covered him with a revolver.

The officers had found a 20-gallon whisky still, four 50-gallon barrels of raisin mash and five quarts of finished raisin mash, a large quantity of coloring matter and a wine press in the basement beneath a store-room at 5122 North Broadway, and called at Mazze's grocery to question him about it. Mrs. Mazze, who was in charge of the store, went to a back room and informed her husband of the approach of the officers and he ran to the roof.

After surrendering to the officers on the roof, Mazze admitted that the contraband stock in the basement belonged to him. He said that in addition to "moonshining," "bootlegging" and running a grocery store he also was the driver of a service car. His bond was fixed at $2500.

Camillo Vago, proprietor of a saloon on Fee Fee road in Maryland Heights, St. Louis County, was arrested yesterday afternoon when prohibition enforcement agents found 54 barrels containing raisin mash, and a large quantity of sugar in the basement of a one-story building in the rear of the saloon. Vago admitted that the building belonged to him, but said that he had rented it to an Italian whose name he did not know and that he was not aware that the liquor had been stored there.

BALTIMORE POLICE "WITHOUT POWER TO MAKE DRY ARRESTS"

Maryland Attorney-General So Rules on Inquiry of Baltimore Commissioner.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5.—State's Attorney-General Armstrong has ruled that the police of Baltimore city do not possess the power to make arrests for violations of the Volstead act.

Some weeks ago, in response to an inquiry from the Police Commissioner, Armstrong ruled that the police of Baltimore were under no legal compulsion to assist in the enforcement of the Volstead act. Now the Attorney-General has gone further and, in response to a query from Commissioner Gaither, today ruled that they cannot legally make arrests for violations of the Volstead act.

The Attorney-General holds that "the police of Baltimore city do not, at this time, by virtue of their official position, possess the power to make legal arrests for violations of the act or authority to execute Federal processes issued by virtue of its provisions."

STARS AND BARS ON BIER OF KEY'S GRANDNEPHEW

Confederate Veterans Attend Funeral of Relative of Anthem Composer, Who Died at 92.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 5.—With his coffin covered with the Confederate battle flag, and his comrades in arms—a bit of the thin gray line—acting as pallbearers, the body of John Francis Key was carried from the Confederate Soldiers' Home at Pikeville to the Confederate lot at Loudon Park yesterday morning and interred. Services were conducted in Memorial Hall of the home by the Rev. C. M. Yost, pastor of the Ames Methodist Episcopal chapel of Pikeville.

Key was a grandnephew of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner," and a veteran of the First Maryland Confederate Regiment. He died at the home Monday at the age of 92.

A little escort of the veterans, garbed in their gray uniforms, attended the funeral. There are only two dozen veterans at the home, and many of them are too feeble to go out.

By Louise Glaum.

That beautiful actress, Louise Glaum, says: "A girl or woman who is used by without a glance of admiration has only herself to blame. No matter how irregular the features, anybody who possesses a beautiful complexion will attract attention anywhere. It is not possible through the use of Derrwelle for anyone to have a beautiful, ray-white complexion. If you would have a beautiful skin, soft, smooth and velvety, just apply Derrwelle from the toilet counter of any up-to-date drug or department store. It is famous for the instant results it gives. Put it on one side of your face and compare it with the other. You will need no further argument to convince you that it is always ahead of face powder or other make-up. Be sure to read large article by Miss Glaum on the care of the skin soon to appear in this paper. In the meantime get Derrwelle and try it today. You will be astonished at the quick results it gives."

Man Knocked Her Down and Kicked Her, She Tells Police.

Mrs. Anna Hamilton, 32 years old, a waitress in a restaurant at 1223

Chouteau avenue, told policemen last night that she started to wait on a man about 30 years old, who entered the place at 7 p. m., when he stood up and inquired of her: "Do you belong to the union?"

When she replied negatively, she said, he asked her why not join. She knocked her down and then he treated her at the dispensary for a laceration of the eye and bruising.

CONDUCTOR DROVE INTERURBAN IN ACCIDENT

Members of Crew Had Changed Place Before Killing of Four Men Near Mitchell, Ill.

The limited train of the Alton, Granite City & St. Louis Electric Railway which killed four men at the Maryville crossing near Mitchell, Ill., was being driven by the conductor when it struck the automobile in which the men were riding, according to testimony at the inquest last night at Granite City.

Edward C. Curry, the conductor, and H. C. Cook, the motorman, had exchanged places. Company witnesses said that each was equally competent in either position.

O. Hawkins, a conductor, and William Barton, a motorman, who were "deadheading" on the limited, whose identity officials of the company tried to withhold from the coroner, corroborated the testimony of the crew that the whistle was blown for the crossing and additional warning was given when the automobile was seen and that the latter stopped short of the track and that the driver then started it up and tried to cross.

John Zellerman, Harry West and George Willard, who were in a field half a mile away, testified that

PEACE DISTURBANCE CHARGES

Offenders Said to Have Started
Free-for-All Fight in Soft Drink Saloon.

Four men were fined a total of $700 and costs in Police Court today on 27 charges of peace disturbance preferred against them after a free-for-all fight in the rear of the soft drink saloon of Jesse Short, Chouteau and Newstead avenues, on July 10, which they are alleged to have started.

Theodore Wyland, 904A South Sarah street, and William Cullen, 4133 Sarpy avenue, were fined $200 each, and Harry Gillick, 3897 Sarpy avenue and David Burke, 724 South Newstead avenue, were fined $150 each. The men were served with soft drinks, according to Short, and then entered a hall in the rear where a dance was being held. They used improper language, it is charged, and tried to dance with women there. Then they began to throw plates, sandwiches, and the refreshments about and the fight followed. The defendants have appealed.

They heard no whistle until just before the crash.

An open verdict was returned, the jury failing to fix blame for the accident. The men killed were Edward Jansen, a Mitchell farmer, and Frank Craig, Noah Clark and Perry Stroud, harvest hands, from Lenox, Mo.

'SAMARITAN ARMY' HEAD, EX-CONVICT, ORDERED TO MOVE

"General" Edward Collins Promises Police He Will Stop Operations of His "Army" in Missouri.

Edward Collins, who styles himself a "general" in the "Samaritan army," yesterday admitted to the police that he was an ex-convict and promised that he would leave St. Louis and stop the operations of his "army" in Missouri. Complaint against Collins was made by the Chamber of Commerce Charities Bureau, which alleged that, under the guise of religion, Collins was making collections for his own profit. Collins has been operating in St. Louis about a year with headquarters at 505 Franklin avenue and a "Mission" at 1307 Franklin avenue. When taken to the Prosecuting Attorney's office, Collins displayed a charter which he said was granted to the Samaritan Army at Springfield, Ill., in 1907, as an organization founded for "the salvation of souls, spread of the Gospel and charitable purposes." He said he had employed collectors to whom he paid 10 per cent commission on their collections. He was told that his Illinois charter had no force in Missouri and he would be prosecuted if he continued operations here. When police records were produced he admitted that about two years ago he was arrested at Union Station in company with a St. Louis married woman with whom he was eloping and that, on the testimony of the woman to the effect that he had exerted "a religious and hypnotic" power over her, he was fined $500 in police court. He also admitted that he had served a sentence of a year and a day in Fort Leavenworth Penitentiary for violation of the Mann act in 1915.

$2500 PAID BY MILLINERY
DEALER FOR 12 PARIS HATS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—At the Retail Millinery Association of America in the Hotel Astor last evening a dozen specially imported hats from Paris were shown.

The lot was knocked down at auction for $2500 to a manufacturer, with the assurance from Joseph Meyer, first vice president of the association and auctioneer of the hats, that the purchase would "bring him many times his outlay in returns." The most conspicuous model of the lot was a small toque of bright yellow, with bunches of blue and green grapes around it. A little white turban with a brim of ermine carried a crown of four white ostrich plumes crossed, and an ostrich plume to curl over the ear depended from it. A third shape, broad brimmed and made of iridescent, red-brown feathers, had a feather muff to match.

In general there was moderation in size and variety of line among the models. The tendency seemed to be toward broad lines east and west, with the trimming low.

Friday is now cheese day

MANY people are now eating cheese dishes instead of fish on Fridays. They have learned that cheese is many times more nourishing than fish, easier and less unpleasant to prepare. Women who keep house don't like to handle fish. They find that cheese can be prepared in scores of delicious ways and will supply a complete meat ration at much less cost than meat or fish.

We have given away over a million cheese recipe books. Ask your grocer for one. It will show you many interesting new ways to serve cheese cooked into appetizing and nourishing dishes.

Kraft Cheese in Tins is the sanitary new way to buy cheese. It is also the economical way. In-stick on Kraft Cheese in Tins.

PESKY BED BUGS

Bedbugs lay an average of seven eggs per day. Under favorable conditions they hatch in five days, of which two-thirds are females. They mature to adult size and are capable of laying in four weeks. How many bedbugs would you have in a year if you left one female or egg unminuted for one year? To rid the pesky bedbug, you can readily see how necessary it is to use a preparation that will kill the eggs as well as the live ones. P. D. Q. has been demonstrated by the leading Hospitals, Hotels and Railroad Companies that the safest and most economical way to stop future generations of bedbugs, roaches, fleas and ants is to use the new discovery, Pesky Devil's Quietest. P. D. Q. makes a quiet, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas and cockles and at the same time destroy their eggs. Impossible for them to exist when P. D. Q. is properly used. Free, Patent in every package to get the pesky devil in the hard-to-get-at places and save the juice. Special Hospital and Hotel size $2.50—makes five gallons of P. D. Q.—your druggist has it or can get it for you, or sent prepaid upon receipt of price by the Owl Chemical Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Success of P. D. Q. has caused imitators, genuine P. D. Q. is never sold. Sold by Judges & Dolph, Wolf-Wilson, Johnson Bros., Markers, East St. Louis, and other leading druggists.

DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE FOR KANSAS GOVERNOR IN DOUBT

Jonathan Davis Holding Slight Lead in Four-Cornered Contest—Returns Scattered.

By the Associated Press.
TOPEKA, Kas., Aug. 5.—The four-cornered race for the Democratic nomination for Governor occupied chief interest here today as the returns continued to come in slowly. Based upon latest reports, Jonathan Davis of Bronson was holding a slight lead over Dempster Potts, Wichita, O. T. Woods, Liberal, and W. S. Hyatt, Parsons. The scattered returns were largely from the urban districts and supporters of all four candidates were predicting the late rural count would bring fluctuations in their favor. The belief prevailed here that the contest, which was the only one on the Democratic ticket, would not be decided for 24 hours or more.

Interest in the contests for major offices on the Republican ticket lay principally in the majority piled up by Senator Curtis, Gov. Allen and Attorney-General Richard Hopkins, all of whom were far ahead of their opponents.

However, many persons were watching closely the outcome of the contest for State Treasurer, which has developed into a close race between E. T. Thompson, Charles S. Evans and Carl R. White. Thompson had a lead early today on the incomplete returns from 43 counties.

Election officials said the total vote in the State would be about 250,000.

Mannix Cannot Land in Ireland.
By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Aug. 5.—Premier Lloyd George, in answering a question in the House of Commons today as to how the Government proposed to deal with Archbishop Mannix, the Australian prelate, on his arrival, said the Government decision was that the Archbishop should not be allowed to land in Ireland. Such steps would be taken as were deemed necessary to make the decision effective, added the Premier.

Do You Unknowingly Deprive Yourself of Sleep's Benefits?

ONCE in every twenty-four hours, you literally turn your body, brain and nerves over to Mother Nature for repair.

Few people understand that this is the real purpose of sleep. Nor do they realize that the tissue and cell renewing functions which take place within the body during sleep can be materially impaired by a mattress which is not suited to the individual physical characteristics of the sleeper.

The sleeping conditions afforded by the Sealy Sanitary Tuftless Mattress are pre-eminently the most favorable to the nightly process of repair. It is designed with special relation to the functions of sleep as affected by the contact between the mattress and the body.

What the Body Requires During the Sleep Period

In order for the process of repair to go on uninterruptedly during sleep, the body must be wholly free from tension and pressure.

To insure these benefits, it is highly essential that uniform contact should exist between the body and the mattress. And this is precisely what the Sanitary Tuftless Sealy brings about.

Its permanently resilient, Tuftless surface rises soothingly to "fill in" the arches of the back, and "gives" with such ease of resistance where the body indents itself into the mattress as to relieve that sense of pressure which the ordinary mattress develops.

A Single Undulating Batt Inseparably Interwoven

The Sanitary Tuftless Sealy is not only noteworthy for its comfort and its specific relation to the functional requirements of sleep but also because it never really grows old.

This is because it consists of a single giant batt of long-fibre cotton, inseparably interwoven by the Exclusive Sealy Air Weave Process.

When completed, this batt stands five feet high. It is then pressed down, inserted into and released within the covering to the softness and generous depth of the mattress. An occasional sun bath such as all mattresses require, permanently preserves the original undulating Sealy qualities.

Old Fashioned Quality Rigorously Maintained

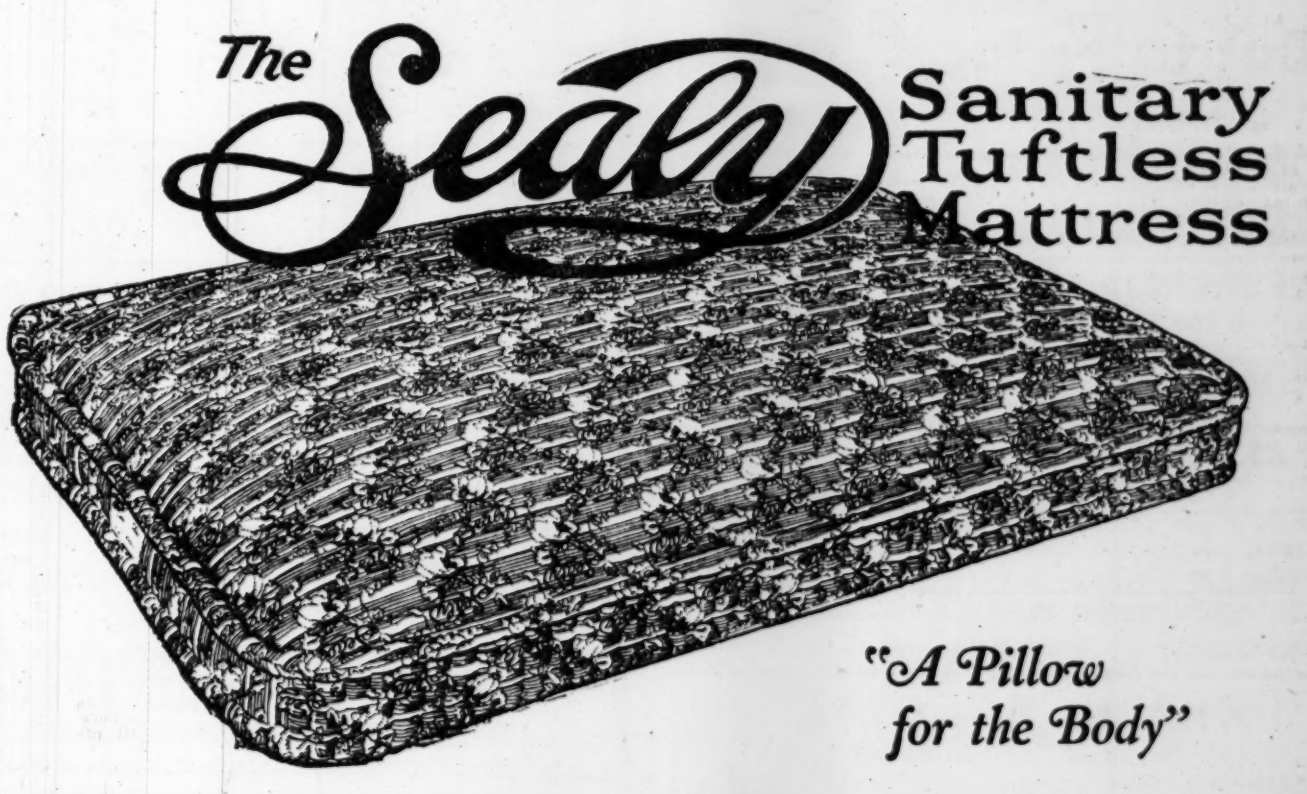

The custom, inaugurated by the Sealy Mattress Company nearly a half century ago, of using only the highest grade cotton available is today rigorously maintained. You get truly old fashioned quality in the Sealy Sanitary Tuftless Mattress.

Sealy-Made Tufted Mattresses

Where a Tufted Mattress will suffice, better values than the Sealy-Made Brands cannot be had. Like the Sealy each is made exclusively of new materials and bears a label guaranteeing the character and quality of its contents. See these exceptional values at your dealer's.

BLACKHEADS GO QUICK BY THIS SIMPLE METHOD

Blackheads—big ones or little ones—soft ones or hard ones—on any part of the body, go quick by a simple method that just dissolves them. To do this get about two ounces of calomine powder from your druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet sponge—rub over the blackheads briskly for a few seconds—and wash off. You'll wonder where the blackheads have gone. The calomine powder and the hot water have just dissolved them. Pinching and squeezing blackheads only open the pores of the skin and leave them open and unhealthy—and unless the blackheads are big and soft they will not come out, while the simple application of calomine powder and water dissolves them right out, leaving the skin soft and the pores in their natural condition. You can get calomine powder at any drug store and if you are troubled with these unsightly blemishes you should certainly try this simple method.

LEAGUE MEMBERS TO COMPARE FINANCES

Each Nation to Present Balance Sheet at Conference Showing Economic Situation.

By the Associated Press.

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Aug. 5.—

Representatives of each Government participating in the international financial conference to be held in Brussels on Sept. 24 will be asked to present a balance sheet showing the actual financial situation of his nation.

It was decided at today's meeting of the council of the League of Nations. All countries will be asked not to issue any more paper money, as to avoid a further weakening of foreign credit.

Efforts will be made to arrive at an equitable arrangement for exchange between Germany and Austria and other nations, the money of the former central empires being regarded as beyond restoration to its pre-war exchange value. The invitation to Germany to participate in this conference is conceded to be tantamount to notice that she will be accepted as a member of the League of Nations. Thirty states will be asked to join in the conference,

the program of which will comprise four principal subjects, the financial policies of the different states, exchange and paper circulation, commercial relations and the re-establishment of international credit.

The league budget submitted at today's meeting showed the expenses of the council are growing as the number of commissions at work is multipled. It asked for $2,500,000 for the ensuing six months, of which sum $430,000 will be required for the contingent fund providing for the future growth of the work of the league.

SECOND PULITZER AIR RACE TO BE ARRANGED

Aero Club to Grant Southwest's Request for Winter Flying Contest.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—A second transcontinental race for the Pulitzer trophy between New York and Los Angeles over the southern route will be arranged by the Aero Club of America in compliance with the request for the race by the Mayor of Los Angeles, the Aero Club of Southern California and many of the cities and clubs, it was announced by the officials of the Aero Club yesterday. Meeting in the club headquarters the board of governors sanctioned the second contest.

The board also instructed the contest committee to proceed with plans for the race, which will be held in one of the first three months of 1921. The first race, which will follow the United States aerial mail route between New York and San Francisco, will be contested in November and will start just one month before the coast to coast aerial service opens over that route.

Maj. Charles J. Glidden, acting chairman of the contest committee, has prepared rules for the first race. He said yesterday the contest committee had received a suggestion that the second race be held in January, so that flyers entering the first contest may also enter the second and have the opportunity of touring California for a month before they fly back to New York over the southern course. If this is sanctioned by the contest committee, it will necessitate the race being run both ways. The course, Maj. Glidden said, is possible to hold a coast to coast aerial race in this manner. As there is no recognized route from New York to Los Angeles over southern cities, to collect money will begin a weather and data regarding it to cities which landing fields are the course, may be included.

LESS SHAMPOO-CA SPOILS THE HAIR

It should be used very carefully, as want to keep your hair looking best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is Mulford's coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Mulford's coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few owners will supply every member of the family for months.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Only One Billy Reedy.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In the death of William Marion Reedy St. Louis has suffered a greater loss to its intellectual life than perhaps its people immediately realize. More than any other individual he contributed to the cultural prestige. Abroad, among the cognoscenti, mention of your city unfailingly calls Reedy to mind, and his name always will be associated with that of St. Louis to give the latter a reflected luster. The community will sense no self-reproach at his death, however, for he was one of the few prophets accorded local honor; albeit close contact prevented the full perspective that would reveal his true proportions.

Not only was Reedy a surpassing stylist, with an infallible instinct for the fit phrase, but he had an opulent store of classical knowledge, an intuitive understanding of every phase of art, a sure sense of criticism, and a catholicity of vision that knew no horizon. Also, he was an authentic philosopher, a veritable poet, and a master political economist. I cannot recall a more versatile or more finished feuilletonist in the entire field of literary journalism.

American belles-lettres is in a bad way. Most of our literary lights of major magnitude have been extinguished. There be good and graceful writers a-plenty; but what one remains of distinctive quality, what figure stands forth from the crowd like a statue of genius as did Reedy? I cannot rid myself of the sadly whimsical thought that Reedy left this world because he was intellectually lonesome. No fitter word for his departure can well be spoken than that line from his fine poem on the death of Brann: "Bon voyage through the dark, good man!"

Is He a Profiteer?
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have read a lot in your paper about rent profiteers and I am called a "rent profiteer" myself. I bought a single flat in a very nice neighborhood. It has three rooms, reception hall, sanitary bath, electric light, sanitary sinks, inside entrance to cellar, front Rank furnace and gas, street made and a large, beautiful lot. I live in one part of flat and rent out the other flat for $25. I heard my tenant says I am a "rent profiteer." I have been offered $30 for the flat I am renting for $25, but would not put out present tenant, who has been living there three years. Do you think I am a "rent profiteer"? Would like to hear some opinions on this. It is the only property I own. After this, if I have any money saved, I will put it in mortgages, and then will not be called a "rent profiteer."

The War Debts.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reading of Banker Wade's generous proposals to enable Europe to get back on its feet quickly, first by canceling our loan of ten billions, second by removing the tariff—I wonder why the American people should still be called upon to constantly pay war taxes.

Has no banker thought of relieving us first of these war taxes before being so considerate of the foreign countries? Perhaps, too, if one should assist financially in such a manner, would it not enable some of the nations to again prepare for war, thus being relieved of debt, and what would they do for America if the circumstances were reversed?

Horses on Eads Bridge.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Perhaps it is not right for an out-of-town man to express his sentiments, but regardless of this fact, I make a protest in the name of humanity against the treatment of horses used in transfer work on Eads Bridge.

Last week, with the thermometer registering around 102 degrees, I noticed big transfer wagons, loaded to the top, being hauled up the bridge from the freight houses. The drivers have no compassion on the teams, and it is a wonder that the horses survive. I understand that these men work on a tonnage basis, which accounts for their brutal and neglectful treatment. The humane society should have a man stationed at the bridge who will protect the dumb brutes.

Make Them Pay.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have always thought a great deal of our Father J. Wade, because I thought he helped to develop the St. Louis banking to such an extent that Wall Street took notice. But I am very much disappointed at his suggestion of canceling the war debt. Those birds started the bird on a spree that has caused untold suffering, upset our commercial world, gave labor the idea that it was all-important and ruined our railroads for years to come. So why should we cancel these debts? Will the Government cancel its revenue taxes and will it refund the war taxes we have paid? Instead of being so good to those slavers, who could not help but be to our merchants, which would help reduce the cost of living? No, sir. Make them pay every cent and with interest. It will help to keep them out of more trouble.

THE MINERS' MUTINY.

Illinois coal miners are drifting slowly back to work, but there is still a considerable sentiment against ending the strike, notwithstanding the orders of the organization's leaders. This spirit of mutiny is new to the leaders, who confess they are puzzled by it.

There is nothing very puzzling about this insubordination. It is a condition for which the leaders are largely responsible. Their leadership has not been such as to command the confidence of the rank and file. They have paraded their jealousies to the public. Mr. Farrington, head of the Illinois branch, openly advised the miners of that State to disobey International President Lewis' orders to the men to return to work. Howat of Kansas has issued similar instructions. Later Mr. Farrington recanted and seconded Lewis' command, but the mischief had already been done. A leader has counseled the men to ignore the command of his superior officer. No surer method for destroying the discipline of any organization could be devised.

The leaders of the mine workers may well be concerned as to the future of the organization, and, especially, as to their own future as leaders. Unless they can command, unless their decisions prevail, they are, manifestly, mere figureheads, nominally in power, actually without authority. The history of the United Mine Workers is a record of good accomplishment for the miners, under adverse conditions. That record is the work of leaders who combined vision and strength. Men possessing those same qualities must be found to carry the burden of leadership if the present incumbents are found wanting.

The hazard of lightly ordering a strike has been shown in several instances recently. A blunder, differing in degree rather than kind, and almost as dangerous, is the attitude of complacency that approves an outlaw strike which, technically, the leader has not ordered; some such role, for example, as Mr. Farrington apparently enacted for a time in the latest strike. Where disrespect for solemn agreements is countenanced the whole code of responsibility is weakened. The flouting of all authority, even within the organization, is invited, in just such a mutiny as is now puzzling the leaders of the miners.

GERMAN CONSCRIPTION ABOLISHED.

In passing the bill abolishing conscription the Reichstag was only fulfilling one of the obligations laid upon Germany in the peace treaty. Under the military clauses, Article 133, it is provided:

Universal compulsory military service shall be abolished in Germany.

The German army may only be constituted and recruited by means of voluntary enlistment.

At the Spa conference, because of Germany's delay, the allies found it necessary to include among their demands regarding German disarmament that the system of military conscription be wiped out for good. It speaks well for the Government's hold on the political situation that it was able to proceed so promptly to the carrying out of its pledge.

The many months that Germany has postponed action in this matter, as in others, only helped to create uncertainty as to its intentions. It would have been better if it had acted voluntarily and without hesitation. Acting under the pressure brought to bear so effectively at Spa, its compliance with the terms of the peace treaty appears to have been too largely a matter of expediency.

But with this step Germany sets out on the right road. The more frankly and expeditiously it can bring itself to go ahead with the duty of meeting its other immediate engagements the sooner it may hope to regain the confidence of its European neighbors.

The packers are doing better. They now admit they are making a fraction more than 6 per cent on their investment, whereas a few years back, when President Roosevelt sent his Secretary of the Interior, Jimmy Garfield, to Chicago, the packers were making only about 2 per cent. At least that was what Jimmy Garfield passed along to the ultimate consumer.

BIBLICAL WINE.

The repetition by "Pussyfoot" Johnson, in reply to a question, of the old assertion of the prohibitionists that the wine of the Bible stories was nonintoxicating, does him no credit. It is a manifest "wrestling of the scriptures," which is condemned by the scriptures themselves.

There is but one word for the wine mentioned so frequently in the Bible. The translators, who were able men, nowhere translated either the Hebrew or the Greek word for wine by calling it grape juice or unfermented wine. Wine, in the biblical sense, is wine, which, in excess, is said to be "a mocker," but taken in moderation, is recommended as a drink by Paul to Timothy, whom he advised to "drink no more water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine own infirmities"—that same wine which the Psalmist said "maketh glad the heart of man." Paul, indeed, evidently believed that wine in moderation was good even for old women, as in his second epistle to Titus he charged that the aged men be sober, and the aged women likewise.

Is not this a virtual admission that a little wine is good for these old people? But to return to Jesus himself, why did he refer to "No man having drunk old wine straightway desireth new; for he saith 'The old is better,'" unless he referred to real wine, which is improved with age? It is, however, waste of time to bring all this again to the attention of the fanatical prohibitionist. Every admonition in the scriptures to be sober, and such

THE PRESIDENT'S RECOVERY.

President Wilson has so far recovered his health that Dr. Grayson, who has been in continuous attendance, feels warranted in taking an extended vacation. It has been a long, hard battle in the White House, a veritable fight for life, during which a rancorous partisanship has at times withheld the sympathy which ordinarily goes out instinctively to such a fighter—has seemed perilously near to rejoicing on occasion when rumor carried adverse tidings.

But though our politicians bulk large every now and then, they are numerically negligible, and partisanship in no wise discolours the sound sportsmanship of the American people. Because of this sportsmanship the news of Mr. Wilson's progress towards complete recovery will be happily received.

It must be acknowledged, however, that such recovery is not without political significance. With regained strength Mr. Wilson will be in shape to strike some blows in the party war about to be waged. To be sure, the President's blows are words—"mere words" they were characterized when it was more or less fashionable to deride the "Wilson notes." But we have had expert and convincing testimony since as to the efficacy of the "Wilson notes," which baffled militaristic and ministerial Germany. The ex-All Highest's "shining sword" was as a wax taper compared with Wilson's suave but flagellant pen.

Quite apart from the campaign, however, and when the political hurly-burly's done, there will yet remain for Woodrow Wilson's pen its culminating work. There is the fascinating narrative of the great war to be written—with the victories and reverses of the chancelleries woven into the fabric of arms. The world may rejoice that Woodrow Wilson is to live to do this work, which he is pre-eminently fitted to do.

It is feared, too, that Mr. McJimsey's childlike faith in the efficacy of the St. Louis machine is forever shattered.

AN INTELLIGENT DUMMY.

Acknowledgment and praise are the due of the intelligent dummy that gave the alarm and partially frustrated the wicked enterprise of Delmar boulevard fur robbers early the other morning.

The dummy was standing in the show window when along came two robbers in an automobile and one of them proceeded to cut a hole in the glass and extract sundry expensive furs. The dummy wore a lavish neckpiece and the robber snatched at that, whereupon the dummy, with remarkable presence of mind for a dummy, fell forward and smashed the window and gave the alarm. Result: The license number of the automobile was obtained, one of the robbers was arrested and part of the stolen furs were recovered. Which shows what one dummy can do by falling over at the right time and place.

To the cavilier who says that the dummy fell forward because it did not have sense enough to fall backward, as a duly authenticated human would have done, we answer that there are times when too much intelligence is worse than too little. If the dummy had had sense enough to fall backward the alarm would not have been given, the robber would not have been captured and the loot would not have been retrieved.

Perhaps a few police dummies in the show windows instead of on the streets might reduce the number of robbers at large.

ACROBATS OF THE AIR.

Lieut. Locklear, acrobat of the air, whose act of leaping from one flying plane to another was recklessness carried to the last degree, was killed Monday night in a movie stunt at Los Angeles. His partner, Lieut. Elliott, a brother in daredevilry, died with him.

Such rashness could have had but one finish, and a finish that could not long be delayed. Their deaths necessarily had been discounted, but it is a great pity that their lives have largely been wasted. Those boys had a quality of nerve which ought to have found a medium of more useful exploitation within their profession. Many aerial projects are being worked out. There is hazard enough, one would think, in those enterprises to satisfy the most daring, but, in addition to the thrill, it is hoped by such adventures to learn new secrets of the air, improve mechanical equipment, attain to higher degrees of almanship, progress towards mastery of this fourth transportation dimension.

In such service those young eagles should have spread their pinions.

Many St. Louisans trace their lineage back to Charlemagne, who unquestionably is a desirable member of any ancestral group. Yet now, as when Tenyson wrote it, "the gardener, Adam, and his wife smile on the claims of long descent."

England has lent Germany $25,000,000, which seems like a generous act until one begins to think of what Banker Wade wants Uncle Sam to do.

THE DOUBLE NEGATIVE.

Once more the contention has bubbled up (now in the New York Times) that the "logical" French use a double negation and that therefore it would not be so ungrammatical, or at least not so illogical, for a child to say: "I have not no pencil."

It seems that the authors of such contentions are somewhat deficient in their French. While it is true that the French negation consists of TWO WORDS, it is by no means a DOUBLE negation. The child, using the above quoted English sentence, first denies the possession and then, so to say, denies the existence of the pencil. The French expression only denies the possession—je n'ai pas—but has no negative word relating to "pencil."

The French expression: ne pas, ne point, ne jamais, ne rien, are all mere variations of the negative. The best illustration of this is our own word "never." If I would say: "I not have ever learned English," no one would accuse me of using a double negation. And yet that is exactly the way a Frenchman speaks when he says: "Je n'ai jamais appris l'anglais." He separates his negation into two words: "ne" and "jamais," like our "never" might be separated (and probably once was) into "not" and "ever."

If the above explanation is not acceptable to the defenders of infantile double negations, they will have to come again, if "Just a Minute" will let them.

ROUGH ON NELSON.

It was his first trip to London, although he was no longer young. But he thoroughly enjoyed the sights and sounds of the busy London streets. In fact, since he came from the other side of the border, he enjoyed these more than the cinemas and theater, where you have to pay to go in.

One afternoon he lingered to listen to a small but hard-working band of alleged musicians who were performing in a small side street.

When the "selection" was ended the visitor to London approached the leader of the orchestra and asked humbly:

"What's the name of that tune you've just played?"

"The Death of Nelson," replied the musician promptly, with visions of large tips and requests for encores.

"Well, mon," replied the other, as he shook his head and moved off, "I can say I've gave him an awful death!"—Answers.

IF AT FIRST—

The fat man decided to try golf as a weight-reducer. Armed with four sticks, a ball and a caddy, he marched off to the links.

The caddy placed the ball upon the tee. Then, with a terrific swing, the fat man whirled his club through the air.

But the little white ball still stayed smiling on its tee, while the club, meeting Mother Earth, broke into splinters.

"Give me another club, boy!" said the fat man.

"Alas! Club No. 2 shared the fate of club No. 1, and club No. 3 emulated the evolutions of club No. 2, and club No. 4 flew into a hedge. And still this little white ball smiled on."

"What would you do now?" asked the golfer, wiping his forehead, as he turned in desperation to the caddy.

SAVINGS OF A SIMPLE SOPH.

A modern girl is not concerned with whom she goes on her honeymoon so much as where. Mothers think daughters should "look good" before they marry, and daughters think it is necessary only to be "good-looking" to marry. There's a difference.

Reasons women go out with men:
1. To make other women jealous.
2. To be seen by other women.
3. Because they don't like to be crochets.
4. To show the family they're popular.
5. Because they like to play the "big sister."
6. To meet other men. AL LEVIN.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION.

THE STEEL STRIKE.

From the New Republic.

THE directors of the Steel Corporation may be assumed to be typical Americans, endowed with the typical American sense of justice and fair play. How does it come, then, that they have permitted such a system of abominations as the Interchurch report reveals to grow up about them? They set out with the theory, valid, perhaps, under primitive industrial conditions, that any interference in the direct relation between employer and employee is superfluous if not mischievous. Therefore, the spread of unionism had to be checked, and where it was established, unionism had to be dislodged, but cautiously, in view of the danger of rousing public sentiment against the corporation. The work of dislodgment had been completed before 1919. The unionism might not creep in, the world was ransacked for docile laborers and an active, if not intelligent, espionage was instituted. Schemes for subsidizing and utilizing the local public authorities were elaborated which could not suppose any interference in the direct relation between employer and employee. In every age there are needed men who understand so well how the system works that they can force the innovator to the worst test. Without able conservatives, the progressive spirit becomes flabby and wayward, and few issues are settled on their merits. Weak conservatives cannot put progressive through a searching test; they merely lob about confusing the issue, obstructing blindly. They make the intellectual victory too easy and practical achievement too hard.

CONSERVATISM IN POLITICS.

From the New Republic.

ONE of the curious things about American life is the universal fear of the word conservative. Nobody seems to be willing to call himself a conservative, to defend conservatism, to think on conservative doctrines. Yet conservatism is an honorable attitude, and when coupled with intelligence and clarity of mind it is a permanent asset in any society. In every age there are needed men who understand so well how the system works that they can force the innovator to the worst test. Without able conservatives, the progressive spirit becomes flabby and wayward, and few issues are settled on their merits. Weak conservatives cannot put progressive through a searching test; they merely lob about confusing the issue, obstructing blindly. They make the intellectual victory too easy and practical achievement too hard.

DEVELOPMENT OF CHINA.

From the North American Review.

A CONSORTIUM of four Powers, France, Great Britain, Japan and the United States, has at last been formed, for loaning China has at last been less than $50,000,000 and not more than $250,000,000 for railroad, mines and other works of economic development. This achievement, which promises to be beneficial, is a sequel to the negotiations of the United States to let Japan and Russia have the special privileges in the matter which they desired. The other was the unwillingness of China to admit foreign dictation or control over her expenditure of the funds loaned.

In the present case it is understood that these obstacles have been surmounted. The United States and Japan have come to an agreement relative to the country's "special interests" in some provinces of China, and the urgency of her needs has been accepted. China to accept a loan with the degree of foreign supervision that has hitherto been exercised. It is probable that the economic advancement of China will be promoted, but the principle of the open door and equality of opportunity, to which the United States once secured the adhesion of the world, will scarcely be affirmed.

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

B LACKLY silhouetted against the nearest square, she passed two masculine figures, one taller and slimmer than the other, coming into the building. The slim, younger man had a quick turn of the head as the girl went by. Dolly did not even see him. (Men imagine it is for them that women dress. But the true "frock fan" is she who dresses without a thought of men.)

Already Dolly almost knew that she would order that frock.

Already (though this she did not know) she was taking the first step along a path that would lead her—where?

II.

She ordered that frock.

Then another.

Later, a third!

"With three dresses a woman can go anywhere. That is, if they are the right ones," decreed Madame Laure, head of the showrooms. She was one of those sallow but faultlessly turned out French women, with disillusioned, not unkindly eyes. "But the English ladies," she turned her quick palms upward, "they choose 33 dresses, always the wrong ones! In buying clothes, mademoiselle, there is one thing to consider—"she held up an impressive forefinger—"you have only one back. Why buy, therefore, for the cupboard? A street dress, perfect of its kind; an afternoon frock, also perfect; a perfect toilette for the evening. Behold all that you need."

"Of course," murmured Dolly, covetously, "but, you see, I can only order the little serge coat frock."

Another ineffably French gesture. "But! All is perfectly simple! Monsieur, who spoke to me this morning, explained that Mlle. Kirkpatrick was to have very special terms and could be permitted time, time, time, as much as she will, before paying. Actually, he himself will regulate the account here, while mademoiselle repays in installments, is it not? Like that scarcely noticing the expense. So, mademoiselle, I have here une véritable occasion, a such bargain as little robe of the afternoon. Your new coat frock there is tres chic. But when you make a visit or go to a matinee you will wish for a change. Something more flou, more pretty. And, mademoiselle, who has so much the sense of clothes, and the figure for des toilettes exquises! Regard me this frock—here."

She produced the little robe of the afternoon. It was temptation itself in supple charmeuse; color, a warm gray gleaming to violet; hem, sleeves and neck fringed by dark monkey fur. Displaying it, the temptress murmured of its showroom price, quoted another sum, expatiated, smiled, persisted, dominated the tempted one in a manner that none but a French saleswoman achieves—a manner that leaves her victim in a state of positive, unreasoning, humble gratitude for defeat.

Dolly Kirkpatrick went down in the lift from the showrooms to the manager's office, wearing the new coat frock, leaving behind her the afternoon gown for some slight alteration, and intoxicated by this, her first draft of that for which she had craved. At the floor between that of the showrooms and of the manager's office the lift stopped to admit another passenger.

This was a young man whom Dolly did not remember having seen before at Welch's. Young men were, so far, completely lost upon this girl; so far she was oblivious of anything that could not wear a frock. Wrapped in this obsession of hers, this clothes "complex," she would probably never have noticed the tall slimmness of the figure that stepped into the lift, or the ease of the gesture (something "not London" about this) with which, seeing a lady in the lift, he pulled his hat from his dark, classically small head. However, for once Miss Kirkpatrick did find herself noticing something about a man's looks. She noticed this young man's eyes. They turned very quickly upon her, gave her a glance of surprise, delight, inquiry, all perfectly courteous, before they turned quickly away again. Bright, deepest, eyes, of a warm gray, gleaming to violet, and fringed with lashes that seemed thick and long as a fur trimming to those eyes; eyes to haunt a woman's dreams.

All Dolly thought was: "That man's eyes were exactly the color of my new afternoon frock."

She entered her office, and felt all day that she worked better for being so well dressed. The manager himself, all benevolence and watchfulness, voiced this as his own impression just as he was going out.

The Age of Chivalry

He added, as if carelessly, "How many new dresses is Madame Laure doing for you, Miss Kirkpatrick; three, isn't it?"

"Two; this one and an afternoon frock."

"Oh! Better have some sort of a little evening gown while you're about it, hadn't you?" he said.

Realization came very suddenly a week or so later.

"And when is the new evening frock to be finished to fit you?" inquired Dolly's fatherly employer at lunch time. His tone was more than kind now, more than interested. A woman wiser than Dolly would have called it "possessive." Dolly, however, smiled ineffably toward the thought of her newest love, the evening gown.

Needless to add that it was plain, dead black. Madame had not even hesitated between it and the white frock with the overdruss of tiny glittering icicles. The frost frock was perhaps Richmond are giving on Saturday."

"Wear it before then!" suggested her employer. And now even Dolly noticed a change in his voice. Even Dolly's blank innocence was conscious of the difference in the man's glance, intent now upon the look in her own face. A quick little thrill of discomfort shot suddenly through her as she sat at the desk opposite to his. What did he mean by staring at her? What did he mean by the tone of his "wear it before then?"

He leaned forward, adding: "Wear it tonight, the pretty new frock. Put it on when you get back. Then I'll call for you later, d'you see? Take you out for a nice little dinner somewhere."

Dolly's fair head lifted, alert, discomposed. The tone of the man, not the words, sent a further thrill of uneasiness through her. She suddenly seemed to see, not her "middle-aged, rotund, kindly boss," who spoke to her as she was her own daughter, but a stranger.

"Dinner"—she began.

"Yes! That's it! Just the two of us."

"Oh, it's very kind of you," faltered his clerk, "but I—I think I'd—I think, if you don't mind, that I had better not."

"Now, why not?" A note of ingratitude in the voice which did not reassure.

Dolly, rather flusteringly: "Isn't it supposed to be not quite businesslike to go out to dinner with people one is working with all day?"

"Ah, stuff and nonsense, my child! This isn't going to be 'business,' laughed the man, getting up from his seat. "This is a pleasure I've been looking forward to for a week now. I meant that pretty frock for you to wear when you came out with me, to be sure."

He took a step toward her, smiling into her radiant little face. And now at last Dolly Red Riding Hood did see the wolf-gleam between those puffy lids. "Why do you suppose I got you those frocks?" he asked. "Eh?"

Dolly rose, too, clutching the back of the chair. "You got them for me?" she faltered. "You? But I—I bought the frocks myself. At least, I—

I am going to pay for them, of course."

"Of course!" he echoed with a laugh, still good-humored. "But when? Sixty-odd pounds takes some saving up out of a salary of three pounds a week, my dear. Especially when your other savings have gone on shoes and silk stockings and oddments to wear with the new frocks. Clothes are a very expensive hobby these days. Very expensive, as you'd find. Better leave that bill up to me for the present, eh?" He took a step nearer. She stood motionless, seeing in one flash what she had done—seeing dismissal, debt, disgrace as dim, looming shapes ahead and not knowing now where to turn.

"Eh?" he said. "However, if you feel you'd like to give me something on account, what about a kiss now?"

A little horrified cry escaped her. He, exasperated at the instinctive recoil and by the horror on her small face, caught her firmly by the arms.

"Oh, don't pretend to be shocked!"

She struggled in his tightening grip. With a crash the chair fell to the floor. It dropped the sound of a tap on the office door.

"Don't—don't—please!" she gasped. But the sagging face with that wolf glitter in the eyes was thrust closer to her own face that she flung desperately backwards on her slim white neck.

Sudden as a pistol shot another voice rang out over the manager's shoulder: "Here, you, sir! What's this?"

Upon which Dolly's arms were released so abruptly that she reeled, and, to steady herself, caught with wildly groping fingers at the desk. But it was not merely the desk that, for some seconds, gave her such comforting support. It was a man's hand, and it belonged to the dark young fellow, tall and slim, who had just swung into the manager's office.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

On the Sweeter Sex
By HELEN ROWLAND

TO a woman, at 18, marriage is an adventure; at 22, a career; at 30, a goal; and at 40, a haven.

It's a wise child that knows its own mother—in a 1920 bathing suit.

A woman's youthful love-affairs are never so thrilling and romantic as when she recalls them to her husband for the forty-seventh time.

Everything comes to the woman who waits; but, by the time it arrives she is usually either too mad to speak to it, or waiting for—some other man.

As a man grows older you never can tell whether he will begin doing the things at which he used to be shocked or begin to be shocked at those who do the things he used to do.

If every gentleman were as polite as his chauffeur and every lady were as courteous and considerate as her husband's stenographer, there would be fewer romantic triangles of the drawing-room-office-garage variety.

Ever may have had nothing but a fidget to wear; but, at least, she had the delightful consolation of knowing that no other woman could come out two weeks later in a cheap imitation of it.

A clever woman could make a fool of almost any man—if he wouldn't forestall her, by falling in love with some little fluff with one brain-cell, and making a fool of himself.

A woman's enemies never strike her when she's down. They merely step aside and look gleefully on while her friends do it.

As long as a man in love always says twice as much as he means, and a woman in love never says half as much as she means, there will never be that perfect understanding between them of which the poets sing.

Every time a woman reads a newspaper account of a Lothario's escapades, she sighs and looks at her husband suspiciously; every time a man reads one, he smiles to himself and looks a little envious.

In ancient Arabia, the formal announcement of divorce was, "Be gone! For I will no longer drive thy flocks to the pasture!" But the modern Arabian formula is: "Along! I do hope you'll like the climate of Reno." Which, to say the least, is much more polite.

Men may guess how a woman manages to get into this year's evening gown—but it will always be a deep mystery to them how she manages to keep it on.

Why wives are so dull: Before marriage, a man greets a woman's marriage at witty repartee with a laugh; after marriage, he greets them with a grunt.

Perfidy: Before marriage, an infidelity in trifles. After marriage, a sin with its collar off.

In these days of feminism a husband is of no importance whatsoever—until you have tried living your whole life without one. Then you may find yourself wistfully wondering if even a dead or divorced husband isn't better than none at all.

Peeping Pansy Fairy Tales

By MARIE, QUEEN OF RUMANIA.

WHY DAME DAMMYDIMMYDOO WAS GOOD TO PANSY.

DAME DAMMYDIMMYDOO did not lead Pansy back to the way they had come, but hobbled into the forest, taking quite a different direction. The sun was sinking, and it was that lovely hour when, before going to rest, he seems to intensify his radiance, lighting up all things with fantastic shine.

Especially in a forest, this hour is lovely, and as Pansy moved lightly along beside her limping companion each tree trunk resembled a church pillar brightly illumined from one side. Long streaks of golden light lay over the green moss, and more than ever Pansy had the sensation that she was moving in a wonderful dream.

For awhile there was silence. Pansy was pondering over many things. There had been such a quantity of different impressions and sensations crammed into one day. The rest of the party had joined the little girl and her old companion, but for the moment no one spoke. At last Pansy said:

"Where are we going to?"

"To another little door," said the dame mysteriously.

"Oh, how delightful!" exclaimed Pansy; "is it far from here?"

"No, it is quite near, or I would not be hobbling on old feet."

"Do you sometimes use your wonderful horses?"

"Oh, yes! I certainly do."

"How is Sun God?" inquired Pansy.

"He continues to fill the world with his wonderful glory, something like the sun that is actually filling this world."

"And the unripe little chestnuts?"

"They are eating fragrant flowers in fields that I alone know of."

"And the wonderful white Arab, what is he doing?"

"Oh! she has a specialty. She loves all animals as white as herself, so she spends her days in a shady meadow in company with a thousand white doves that fly about in the sunshine like flashing snow-white lights!"

"Oh! how wonderful it must be!" exclaimed Pansy. "What is her name?"

"I call her dream-maiden," said the old woman.

"Yes, there was something of a dream about her," agreed Pansy, nodding her head. "I often think about all your wonderful horses, and sometimes I cannot imagine that I have really seen them."

"I am going to show you other wonderful things before it is dark, little girl," chuckled Dame Dammydimmydo.

"What you so kind to me?" asked Pansy. "Why is everybody so kind to me?"

"They have many reasons, little girl."

"But tell me the principal reason?" pleaded Pansy.

"Well, perhaps the principal reason is because God has blessed your eyes."

"God has blessed my eyes?" exclaimed Pansy in a voice.

"Yes, and that is why you see things in a special way, and people see you in a special way."

"Now, turn the key, little girl," she ordered, and Pansy turned the key.

"Perhaps, but it may also have been at the hour of your birth."

"I wish I could have felt that kiss!" cried Pansy, clasping her hands.

"Although you are not aware of it, you are feeling it at all hours of your life," said the wise woman.

"Oh, you do say wonderful things!" exclaimed Pansy. "You always astonish me all the time!"

"Well, I hope to astonish you still a lot more before I have done with you," chuckled her old friend. "I think we are arriving, which is a good thing, because my old bones are not too fond of exercise."

"You might have ridden on Sunshine," said Pansy.

"I might do all sorts of things," said the dame, and then both old woman and little girl laughed, their two voices mixing like two friends in the evening stillness of the forest.

The little party had reached an enclosure. It was a high stone wall, which was a most unexpected sight in the middle of this wild wood. The trees were a bit rarer here, but all the same it was still the forest. And right before Pansy was a small door—such a dear little door—of some dull midwintery metal, a soft silvery green color, with a rough surface rather resembling a crocodile's skin.

"What can there be behind that door?" cried Pansy.

"Tim and Cussy had come up quite close to her, and both were sniffing on the ground, trying to smell what was on the other side of the door. Cussy even spread himself quite flat and tried to shove his pointed black claws under the door. Behind them stood Pinky-Panky holding Sunshine, and Dammydimmydo was conversing with the Elf in a hushed voice.

Pansy had laid both small hands against the door and was pressing against it to see if it would give way before her touch, but the door was quite fast.

"I'm coming, little girl," said the old dame; and hobbling up to Pansy's side, she drew a large silver key from her mysterious pocket and stuck it into the keyhole.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

TO THE NEWEST ROMANOFF.

In Paris last week was born a Romanoff, who might have been the heir to the Russian throne.

Oh! little lucky Romanoff, wee wrinkled, blinking mito, No cannon thundered to the skies when first you breath; Like any other fledgling soul you fluttered to the earth, And only your indignant wail announced your royal birth. About your little dingy bed, no noblemen gazed down Upon the funny fuzzy head that might have worn a crown.

That might have worn a golden crown through rough and bitter years, A crown for which a nation paid with suffering and tears, While you sat on the golden throne in high majestic state The target of your peoples' jeers—the object of their hate. A future, cringing slithering thing—unloved, remote, alone, Who feared the very men who stood on guard about your throne.

Oh! lucky little Romanoff—today you laugh and coo And try to bite your shell pink toes, like other babies do, And sleep serenely all night long with quiet, baby breath, For there are none about you now to wish or plan your death. For happiness, in days to come you need but stretch your hand, Nor find that hated bars the way throughout an evil land.

For vanished is the golden crown predestined for your brow; The throne on which you might have reigned is dust and ashes now, And you may walk about the world and never know the fears That crushed and tortured royalty for many harrowing years. So coo amid the shadows there, wee wrinkled, blinking thing, And thank the God who banished Czars you were not born a King!

A Shifting Statue.

The destroyer Sharky, which arrived in New York harbor some days ago, dropped anchor near the Statue of Liberty on the starboard side, but during the night the tide shifted the vessel about to the port side.

This transformation was most perplexing to a rookie, who finally confided his problem to a grizzled tar.

"Well, you see, it's like this," the old-timer informed him. "New York and Brooklyn both claim the statue, so to stop the argument the Government lets New York have it one day and then moves it over to the Brooklyn side the next."—The American Legion Weekly.

He Got Off Another.

"I understand you get off some very good things occasionally," said the sweet young thing at the swell reception.

"Well, they say I do," replied the man with the monocle.

"But it takes considerable time to do it."

"You mean I am verbose?"

"Not exactly that; but you've been standing on the train of my dress for 10 minutes."—Yonkers Statesman.

For Exceptional Bravery.

A colored soldier, returning to the Southern town whence he had been whisked by Uncle Sam, and bearing a decoration on his manly chest, was the cynosure for all the dusky belles of the place.

"What dat you got pinned on you?" asked one.

"Dat ain't nothin but jes a little ol' crow de gurry."

"How come you get dat crow de gurry?"

"How come? Ain't no how come, Dey jes' gives it me for lettin' a French officer kiss me."—American Legion Weekly.

All Greek to Her.

"So your wife objects to living in the next flat to that foreign couple?" remarked Mr. Naylor.

"Yes," replied Mr. Gobb. "They quarrel incessantly and she can't understand a word of it."—Houston Post.

Her Reason.

"Maria," said Mr. Jenkins, as he pushed the bed against the wall, "Maria, didn't I ask you a week ago to oil those castors? They creak something awful."

"I know you did, James, but there isn't a drop of castor oil in the house."—Philadelphia Ledger.
